EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Rules, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

Under s. 14 of and the Fourth Schedule to the Tithe Act, 1936, the owner of land wholly comprised in an agricultural holding is entitled in certain circumstances to a remission of an amount equal to the excess of the annuities charged in respect of that land over one-third of the annual value of the land. The annual value is that specified in a certificate issued by the Surveyor of Taxes to whom an application has to be made by the landowner.

These Rules, which under s. 10 (10) of the Tithe Act, 1951, are a statutory instrument, prescribe the form in which the application has to be made, and replace the Redemption Annuities Rules, 1936, which are revoked.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These regulations are consequent upon the Town and Country Planning (National Coal Board) Regulations, 1951, which lay down the extent to which the provisions of the Town and Country Planning Act, 1947, relating to the operational land of statutory undertakers apply to lands of the National Coal Board. The National Coal Board are now in a position to make claims for payments under the Scheme to be made under Section 58 of the Act in respect of land other than land specified in those Regulations. The present regulations prescribe the period within which such claims may be lodged by the Board, notwithstanding that the normal period has already expired.
