EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM TO

THE CORBY (ELECTORAL CHANGES) ORDER

2014 No. 3287

1. This explanatory memorandum has been prepared by the Local Government Boundary Commission for England (the Commission) and is laid before Parliament by Command of Her Majesty.

2. Purpose of the instrument

2.1. The Order provides for new district wards and numbers of councillors for Corby at district elections in 2015 and thereafter. No parishes are to be split between new district wards.

3. Matters of special interest to the Joint Committee on Statutory Instruments

3.1. None.

4. Legislative context

4.1. The Commission has power under section 59 of the Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009 (the 2009 Act) to make an order giving effect to recommendations contained in a report, prepared under section 58(4) of the 2009 Act, after conducting an electoral review under section 56(1) of that Act. This instrument is being made to give effect to the Commission's recommendations for new electoral arrangements set out in its report prepared following an electoral review of Corby.

5. Territorial extent and application

5.1. This instrument applies to England.

6. European Convention on Human Rights

6.1. As the instrument is subject to the negative resolution procedure and does not amend primary legislation, no statement is required.

7. Policy background

- What is being done and why

7.1. The purpose of an electoral review is to decide on the appropriate electoral arrangements including the number of councillors and the names, number and boundaries of wards or divisions for a specific local authority. The Commission began the electoral review of Corby in August 2012. The Commission decided to conduct the review as, based on the December 2011 electorate figures, 40% of the district's wards had a variance of more than 10% from the average for the authority. Stanion & Corby Village ward had 32% fewer electors than the average for the authority.

7.2. An electoral review aims to ensure that the number of electors represented by each county or district councillor is as close to equal as possible, but the recommendations must also have regard to community identities and interests and the need for effective and convenient local government. To achieve these aims, the Commission tries to ensure that the number of electors per councillor in every division or ward is as close as possible to the average for the authority, but is happy to show flexibility in moving away from the average based on the evidence provided during the consultation stages of the review. Following a four-stage review process the Commission published its 'Final recommendations - New electoral arrangements for Corby Borough Council[1] on 29th July 2014.

7.3. The Order provides for changes to the electoral arrangements for Corby at the elections in 2015 as recommended by the Commission. The existing wards of Corby will be replaced by twelve new ones. Six wards will each return three councillors, five wards will each return two councillors and one ward will return one councillor. The Commission considered that the evidence received justified one ward having a variance predicted to vary by more than 10% from the authority average by 2019.

- Consolidation

7.4. The Order does not amend or revoke any legislation.

8. Consultation outcome

8.1. The Order gives effect to recommendations that were consulted on during the review of electoral arrangements from August 2012 until July 2014. There was an initial six-week consultation, during which the Commission asked for proposals on the most appropriate number of councillors and a second eleven-week consultation, during which the Commission asked for proposals on ward boundaries for Corby. Having considered the submissions received, the Commission published its 'Draft recommendations - New electoral arrangements for Corby Borough Council [2] on 21st January 2014. Following a further twelve-week consultation on the draft recommendations, the Commission considered the further evidence received and published its final recommendations.

8.2. During the course of the review, the Commission received 20 representations. The consultations involved Corby Borough Council, political groups, parish and town councils and other interested parties. The Commission considered that a council size of 29 would ensure effective and convenient local government for Corby. The Commission based its draft recommendations for ward boundaries on submissions from the Council. The Commission made some modifications in the north of Corby town and rural west of Corby.

8.3. The Commission received submissions opposing its recommended boundaries for Rural West ward. The Commission decided that, in order to achieve a better balance between the statutory criteria, it should alter its draft recommendations for Rowlett and Rural West wards. The Commission confirmed the remainder of its draft recommendations for Corby as final.

8.4. A detailed analysis of the outcome of the consultation is set out in the report 'Final recommendations - New electoral arrangements for Corby Borough Council which is available at http://www.lgbce.org.uk/current-reviews/east-midlands/northamptonshire/corby-fer

9. Guidance

9.1. The Commission does not intend to issue any guidance alongside this instrument. This is not considered necessary as the Order is self-explanatory and gives effect to recommendations following consultation with interested parties as to the changes to electoral arrangements.

9.2. Once the Order has been made, the Commission will publish a press release and distribute to local media advising that new electoral arrangements will be implemented at the next local elections. The press release will also direct interested parties to the Commission's website where the final recommendations will be available in detail.

10. Impact

10.1. No impact assessment has been prepared because no impact on the private sector or the voluntary sector is foreseen.

10.2. The impact on the public sector will be limited to the area for which the Order makes provision. The one-off cost of producing the map referred to by the instrument is to be funded by the Commission. The one-off cost of amending the electoral register to reflect the new wards is to be funded by Corby Borough Council.

11. Regulating small business

11.1. The Order does not apply to small business.

12. Monitoring and review

12.1. The Commission will have no role in monitoring Corby Borough Council's implementation of the Corby (Electoral Changes) Order 2014. The Commission is not required to undertake such monitoring; that is a matter for the relevant officers of Corby Borough Council.

12.2. The Order will be reviewed insofar as the Commission continually monitors local authorities in England to identify any that meet its criteria for electoral reviews.
