CHAPTER xxxvii.

An Act to vest the Cork Corn Market and the control and management thereof in the Corporation of the city of Cork to provide for the use of the market buildings as municipal offices and for other purposes. A.D. 1889.

[24th June 1889.]

WHEREAS the mayor sheriffs and commonalty of the city of Cork (who are now under the provisions of the Act 3 and 4 Victoria cap. 108 represented by the mayor aldermen and citizens of the city of Cork and together with the said mayor aldermen and citizens are herein-after in this Act included in the expression "the Corporation") were the body entitled to establish and maintain therein a market for the sale of corn and other articles in the Act next herein-after mentioned and were immediately before the passing of the said Act the proprietors of the market for the sale of corn and other articles aforesaid in the said city:

And whereas by the Act 3 Geo. IV. cap. LXXIX intituled "An Act for the establishment of markets for the sale of corn and other articles in the city of Cork" (herein-after in this Act called "the recited Act") after reciting that the Corporation were willing and desirous to have such new market established as therein-after mentioned the mayor sheriffs and common speaker of the said city of Cork for the time being six persons being members of the common council of the said city to be elected by the common council together with six representatives of the merchants trading in the city of Cork and nine landholders to be elected in manner therein mentioned were appointed trustees for the purpose of establishing maintaining and regulating a corn market or corn markets in and for the city of Cork and the suburbs thereof and also markets for the sale of hay straw green food for cattle and dead pigs within the said city and suburbs and to be called and known as "the trustees for markets in the city of Cork and suburbs thereof" (which trustees are herein-after in this Act called "the Corn Market Trustees") and were thereby empowered to make and maintain such market or markets as aforesaid to levy rates and tolls on any person or persons selling corn or other articles as aforesaid within the said city or the suburbs thereof and to make byelaws for the regulation of the said markets and the Corn Market Trustees were also authorised from time to time to borrow and take up at interest such sum or sums of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of twenty thousand pounds for the purposes of the recited Act in the manner and on the conditions therein set forth And it was by the said Act (section 59) enacted that one sixth part of the produce and profits of the rates and tolls payable to the Corn Market Trustees should be by them handed over and paid to and to the use of the Corporation:

And whereas the Corn Market Trustees in pursuance of the recited Act and shortly after the passing thereof provided a market for the sale of corn and other articles as aforesaid and have ever since carried on and managed the same down to the present time and levied rates and tolls on corn and such other articles as aforesaid brought for sale therein:

And whereas for some years past the income arising from the rates and tolls and otherwise in respect of the said market has been insufficient to meet the expenses and outgoings incurred by the Corn Market Trustees in carrying on and managing the same and there is now due to the various creditors other than the creditors of the sums borrowed under the recited Act as aforesaid considerable sums:

And whereas it is expedient that the said market together with all lands buildings and appurtenances connected therewith and the control and government thereof should be transferred from the Corn Market Trustees and vested in the Corporation and that due provision should be made for discharging the debts and liabilities of the Corn Market Trustees and winding up their affairs and that adequate powers should be conferred on the Corporation to enable them to carry on the said market:

And whereas it is expedient for the purposes aforesaid that the recited Act should be repealed to the extent herein-after provided and that the powers and authorities thereunder as herein-after provided should be transferred to and vested in the Corporation and that power should be conferred on them generally for enabling them to carry on manage and control the said market:

And whereas there are not at present suitable offices for municipal business in Cork and it is expedient and would tend to economy to enable the Corporation to adapt and maintain the corn market buildings and appurtenances so as to provide not only due accommodation for the business of the corn market but also for municipal buildings and offices for the municipal business of the Corporation:

And whereas it is expedient to authorise the Corporation to borrow money as herein-after provided for the purposes aforesaid:

And whereas the objects and purposes of this Act cannot be effected without the authority of Parliament:

May it therefore please Your Majesty that it may be enacted and be it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal and Commons in this present Parliament assembled and by the authority of the same as follows:—

Short title.
