EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the regulations but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

The Corn Returns Act, 1882, requires buyers of British Corn at certain towns prescribed by regulations to make returns of purchases of corn by them. These regulations re-enact with amendments the regulations now in force. The principal changes are additions to the towns from which returns are to be made and a variation of the form in which the return is to be made.
