6. Legislative Context

6.1 The Commission has power under section 59 of the Local Democracy, Economic Development and Construction Act 2009 (the 2009 Act) to make an order giving effect to recommendations contained in a report, prepared under section 58(4) of the 2009 Act, after conducting an electoral review under section 56(1) of that Act. This instrument is being made to give effect to the Commission's recommendations for new electoral arrangements set out in its report prepared following an electoral review of Isle of Wight Council.

7. Policy background

What is being done and why?

7.1 The purpose of an electoral review is to decide on the appropriate electoral arrangements including the number of councillors and the names, number and boundaries of wards or divisions for a specific local authority. The Commission began the electoral review of Isle of Wight Council in May 2018. The Commission decided to conduct the review as, based on the December 2016 electorate figures, 36% of divisions had an electoral variance of greater than 10% from the average for the authority.

7.2 An electoral review aims to ensure that the number of electors represented by each county or district councillor is as close to equal as possible, but the recommendations must also have regard to community identities and interests and the need for effective and convenient local government. To achieve these aims, the Commission tries to ensure that the number of electors per councillor in every division or ward is as close as possible to the average for the authority, but is happy to show flexibility in moving away from the average based on the evidence provided during the consultation stages of the review. Following a six stage review process the Commission published its 'New electoral arrangements for Isle of Wight Council - Final recommendations'[1] on 4 June 2019.

7.3 The Order provides for changes to the electoral arrangements for Isle of Wight Council at the county elections in 2021 as recommended by the Commission. The existing divisions of the council will be replaced by 39 new ones. All 39 divisions will each return a single councillor. The Commission considered that the evidence received justified two divisions having electoral variances of greater than 10% from the authority average by 2024.

7.4 Under section 56 of the 2009 Act, whenever the Commission recommends changes to the electoral arrangements for a borough, district or county council it must also recommend whether, in consequence of those changes, any changes should be made to the electoral arrangements for any parish council that is within the authority. Among other things, under Schedule 2 to that Act, recommendations must ensure that no parish ward is split between new county divisions, and under section 56 of that Act, recommendations must be made regarding the number of parish councillors for each parish ward.

7.5 Consequently, in addition to making changes to the electoral arrangements for the county the Order also, where necessary, makes provision with respect to the establishment of new parish wards and sets the number of parish councillors for each of those parish wards.

8. European Union (Withdrawal) Act/Withdrawal of the United Kingdom from the European Union

8.1 This instrument does not relate to withdrawal from the European Union.

9. Consolidation

9.1 This Instrument does not amend or revoke any legislation.

10. Consultation outcome

10.1 The Order gives effect to recommendations that were consulted on during the review of electoral arrangements from May 2018 to April 2019. During the course of the review, the Commission received approximately 97 representations. The consultations involved the Council, parish and town councils, local MPs, local residents and other interested parties. There was an initial 10-week consultation, during which the Commission asked for proposals on the most appropriate number of councillors and division boundaries for the authority. The Commission initially considered that a council size of 40 would ensure effective and convenient local government for the authority. Having considered the submissions received, the Commission published its 'New electoral arrangements for the Isle of Wight Council - Draft recommendations'[2] on 4 September 2018. At that stage, the Commission decided to reduce its recommended number of councillors by one to 39. Following a 10-week consultation on the draft recommendations, the Commission published further draft recommendations for eight divisions. There was then a four-week period of further limited consultation in parts of the authority before the Commission considered the further evidence received and published its final recommendations.

10.2 In response to the consultation on the draft recommendations and further draft recommendations, the Commission modified its proposals for Mountjoy & Shide, Newport Central, Lake North, Lake South, Sandown North, Sandown South, Shanklin Central and Shanklin South divisions. The Commission also changed its original proposal for a two-member division around the Ventnor area in response to local representations and its final recommendations were for two single-member divisions. The Commission's final recommendations included a number of changes to division names in response to the consultation.

10.3 The Commission confirmed its draft recommendations for the remainder of the authority as final.

10.4 A detailed analysis of the outcome of the consultation is set out in the report 'New electoral arrangements for the Isle of Wight Council - Final recommendations' which is available at http://s3-eu-west-2.amazonaws.com/lgbce/Reviews/South%20East/Isle%20of%20Wight/Final%20Recs/IoW%20Report%20Web.pdf

11. Guidance

11.1 The Commission does not intend to issue any guidance alongside this instrument. This is not considered necessary as the Order is self-explanatory and gives effect to recommendations following consultation with interested parties as to the changes to electoral arrangements.

12. Impact

12.1 There is no impact on business, charities or voluntary bodies.

12.2 The impact on the public sector will be limited to the area for which the Order makes provision. The one-off cost of producing the map referred to by the instrument is to be funded by the Commission. The one-off cost of amending the electoral register to reflect the new divisions is to be funded by Isle of Wight Council.

12.3 An Impact Assessment has not been prepared for this instrument.

13. Regulating small business

13.1 The legislation does not apply to activities that are undertaken by small businesses.

14. Monitoring & review

14.1 The Commission will have no role in monitoring the Council's implementation of the Isle of Wight (Electoral Changes) Order 2019. The Commission is not required to undertake such monitoring; that is a matter for the relevant officers of Isle of Wight Council. The Order will be reviewed insofar as the Commission continually monitors local authorities in England to identify any that meet its criteria for electoral reviews.
