Having regard to Council Regulation (EEC) No 468/87 of 10 February 1987 laying down general rules applying to the special premium for beef producers (3), and in particular Article 5 thereof,

Where this is the case, the numbers of the animals in question must be stated on the premium application and evidence that the premium has been granted must be furnished — by a document which shall accompany the animal throughout its life and shall bear the identification number of the animal concerned,

— or, to the extent that the Member States take the necessary provisions in order to avoid the risk of doule granting of the premium, by a register, in which the animal is registered under its number, and which is kept by the producer or the competent authorities.

However, animals so identified which are consigned, after payment of the premium, to another Member State must be marked at the time of consignment in a specific way.'
