EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the scheme, but is intended to indicate its general purport.)

The Agriculture (Silo Subsidies) Act, 1956, authorises the making of schemes for the payment of subsidies in respect of the carrying out of works for the construction or improvement of silos for the making and containing of silage. This scheme made by the Secretary of State for Scotland makes provision for the payment of subsidies at the rates set out in the schedule to the scheme in respect of specified works of construction or improvement. The scheme requires that any works shall be approved by the Secretary of State during the period commencing on 1st August, 1959, and ending on 31st July, 1962, and that the silos shall be able to contain at least 20 tons of silage, or 50 tons in the case of a tower silo, and that their construction shall conform with the requirements of good farming practice. It limits the amount which may be paid in subsidy in respect of works on any one farm to £250, of which sum not more than £125 may be paid in respect of the construction of new unroofed silos, and limits the amounts which may be paid in respect of certain works of improvement to existing silos. It also, in certain circumstances, reduces the maximum amounts payable under it where subsidies were, or will be, paid for similar works carried out under previous schemes on the same farm, and contains provisions relating to the obtaining of the Secretary of State's approval of the works and other incidental matters.

(This Note is not part of the Scheme, but is intended to indicate its general purport.)

The Agriculture (Fertilisers) Act, 1952, provides that schemes may be made for the payment of contributions in respect of fertilisers applied to agricultural land. This scheme, made by the Minister of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Secretary of State for Scotland, with the approval of the Treasury, relates to the United Kingdom. It provides for contributions to be paid to occupiers of agricultural land in respect of nitrogenous and phosphatic fertilisers delivered during the period beginning on 1st July, 1959, and ending on 30th June, 1960. This scheme succeeds the Fertilisers (United Kingdom) Scheme, 1958, which relates to the year ending on 30th June, 1959.
