EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Order, but is intended to indicate its general purport.)

Price-control of gooseberries, strawberries, raspberries and blackcurrants, and of swedes and turnips, has already lapsed under the original provisions of the two Orders (revoked by this Order) that imposed it. Some other controls (which related to use other than for human consumption, containers, pre-emption notices and records) affecting these fruits and vegetables continued, however, in force; these are now all abolished.

(This Note is not part of the Order, but is intended to indicate its general purport.)

This Order revokes the Fresh Fruit and Vegetables (Restriction on Dealings) Order, 1945, as amended, under the provisions of which wholesalers of fruit and vegetables, and selling and buying agents, had to be licensed and were subject to certain other restrictions.

(Five maximum-price Orders relating to fruit have been simultaneously amended by separate Orders so as to provide for the keeping of records of sales of fruit otherwise than by retail, which provision was formerly made by the revoked Order, and to make other consequential alterations.

The five Orders are—the Citrus Fruit Order, 1945 as amended(d);

the Imported Deciduous Fruit Order, 1947 as amended(e);
the Bananas Order, 1948(f);
the Imported Apples Order, 1948 as amended(g); and the Home-Grown Apples Order, 1949(h).

These are the only maximum-price Orders relating to fresh fruit and vegetables—other than those relating to potatoes and carrots, to which the revoked Order did not apply—in operation at the date of coming into operation of the present Order.)
