Whereas by subsection (2) of section 10 of the Licensing (Scotland) Act, 1903(a) (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1903") it is provided that as soon as may be after each census the Secretary of State shall issue an order or orders under his hand declaring the population of each county, burgh and district according to such census and may prescribe therein the date or dates at which alterations in the licensing courts and courts of appeal consequential on any increase or decrease of population shall take effect:

And whereas it is further provided by the said subsection that where according to the census last taken the population of a burgh or burghs in any county has so increased or decreased as to necessitate an alteration in the Second Schedule to the Act of 1903, the Secretary of State shall by order under his hand alter the said Schedule so that every burgh in the county containing a population of or exceeding seven thousand and under twenty thousand (and no other burgh) shall be included therein, and so as to provide for due representation on the court of appeal of every burgh so included:
