(a) in the case of an officer whose retiring allowance had he become entitled to such allowance on 1st October 1972 or such later date on which he became an officer would have been calculated otherwise than by reference to proviso (a) or (b) to regulation 11(3) of the principal regulations, the material date shall be deemed to be the date of his becoming a married officer;

(b) in the case of an officer whose retiring allowance had he become entitled to such allowance on 1st October 1972 or such later date on which he became an officer would have been calculated by reference to proviso (b) to regulation 11(3) of the principal regulations, the material date shall be deemed to be 1st October 1972 or such later date on which he became an officer but where such an officer has married after 1st October 1972 but on or before 31st December 1975 the material date, for the purpose of calculating the amount payable under regulation 25B of the principal regulations in respect of the officer's contributing service which, had he not so married, would have attracted a retiring allowance equal to three times the annual amount of his pension in repect of that service, shall be deemed to be the date after 1st October 1972 on which he became a married officer.

(3) A person who during the period 3rd July 1974 to 31st December 1975 (both dates inclusive) ceases to be an officer and thereupon becomes entitled to a pension under regulation 10 of the principal regulations and a retiring allowance related to that pension and who, had he not become so entitled, would have been able to make an election under regulation 25B of the principal regulations on or before 31st December 1975 shall, where it is to his advantage, be deemed to have made such election in respect of that retiring allowance, in which event—

(a) where he becomes entitled to the said pension under paragraph (1)(a)(i) of the said regulation 10 a single payment (calculated in accordance with paragraph (7) of this regulation) shall be deducted from such retiring allowance and any further sum payable under the said regulation 25B shall be waived, and

(b) in any other case there shall be deducted from such retiring allowance an amount equal to the amount which would have been payable by him by way of lump sum had he made such election and had paragraph (1) of this regulation applied.

(4) A person who during the period 3rd July 1974 to 31st December 1975 (both dates inclusive) dies whilst an officer and who, had he not died, would have been able to make an election under regulation 25B of the principal regulations on or before 31st December 1975, shall be deemed to have made such election and a single payment (calculated in accordance with paragraph (7) of this regulation) shall be deducted from the death gratuity and any further sum payable under the said regulation 25B shall be waived.

(5) Subject to paragraph (6) of this regulation a person who during the period 3rd July 1974 to 31st December 1975 (both dates inclusive) ceased to be an officer and died within 12 months of so ceasing in circumstances in which a death gratuity is payable under regulation 15(1)(b) of the principal regulations and who, had he not ceased to be an officer, would have been able to make an election under regulation 25B of the principal regulations shall be deemed to have made such election.

(6) The death gratuity payable in respect of a person to whom paragraph (5) of this regulation applies shall be reduced by an amount equal to the amount which would have been payable by that person by way of lump sum had he made an election and had paragraph (1) of this regulation applied, but this paragraph shall not apply so as to reduce the death gratuity that would otherwise be payable.

(7) Where a person ceased to be an officer in the circumstances mentioned in paragraphs (3) or (4) of this regulation, the single payment mentioned in sub-paragraph (a) of the said paragraph (3) and in the said paragraph (4) shall—

(a) where he was employed otherwise than as a practitioner when he ceased to be such an officer, be an amount equal to that proportion of 9% of his annual rate of remuneration when he ceased to be such an officer that would have been deducted from his remuneration in his normal pay period of one week, one month or one quarter, as the case may be, and

(b) where he was a practitioner when he ceased to be such an officer, be an amount equal to that proportion of 9% of his remuneration in the last 3 months as a practitioner before he ceased to be such an officer that would have been deducted from his remuneration in his normal pay period of one month or one quarter, as the case may be:

Provided that for the purpose of calculating a person's annual rate of remuneration where he was—

(i) a medical or dental officer entitled under his terms of service to fees in respect of domiciliary consultations, his annual rate of remuneration shall be increased by a sum equal to the amount of those fees earned by him in the last financial year ending before he ceased to be such an officer; and

Transitional provisions relating to transfers of service

23.—(1) Where a person entered employment as an officer after 24th March 1972 but before 1st January 1974, after leaving employment in which he was not an officer and in which he was subject to a superannuation scheme other than a health service scheme, and—

(a) he became an officer within 12 months after leaving that previous employment,

(b) not later than 30th September 1974 he gave written notice to the Secretary of State that he wished this provision to apply to him,

(c) the body administering such superannuation scheme makes a transfer payment to the Secretary of State in respect of him, and

(d) no transfer payment was received by the Secretary of State in respect of him under any provisions previously in force by virtue of the principal regulations, there shall be reckonable as contributing service in relation to the employment in which he is an officer such period of service as is calculated in accordance with Part II of schedule 3 to the principal regulations.

(2) Where a person ceased to be employed as an officer (hereinafter referred to as his "old employment") after 24th March 1971 and entered employment in which he participated in a superannuation scheme (hereinafter referred to as his "new employment") and—

(a) he entered his new employment within 12 months after leaving his old employment,

(b) not later than 31st March 1975 he gave written notice to the Secretary of State that he wished this provision to apply to him,

(c) no benefit (other than a return of his contributions) has been paid in respect of his old employment,

(d) he has repaid to the Secretary of State an amount equal to any sum paid to him by way of return of contributions, together with an amount equal to any income tax which was deducted from his contributions in respect of such payment (not being a deduction under regulation 36(3) of the principal regulations), and

(e) no transfer payment has been made in respect of his old employment under any provision previously in force by virtue of the principal or the previous regulations, the Secretary of State may, if the body administering that scheme so agrees, and that scheme has been approved for the purpose of this paragraph by the Board of Inland Revenue, pay to that body a transfer payment calculated in accordance with schedule 3 to the principal regulations.

(3) Where, before the coming into operation of these regulations—

(a) a person entered employment in which he was an officer after leaving employment as an established civil servant, or in teaching service or which was approved by the Secretary of State under regulation 19(3)(d)(v) of the principal regulations (as originally enacted), or

(b) a person left employment in which he was an officer and became a participant in a superannuation scheme specified in regulation 76(1) of the principal regulations (as originally enacted), he may be treated as if these regulations had not been made.

24.—(1) Where a person who ceased to be employed as an officer before 6th April 1975 and in respect of whom a transfer payment under regulation 76(1) of the principal regulations, or any corresponding provision previously in force by virtue of those or the previous regulations, has been made to the body administering the Federated Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and Hospital Officers, ceases to participate in that scheme in circumstances in which he becomes entitled to a benefit which is based solely on his contributions, that body shall pay to the Secretary of State a sum equal to the transfer payment and the Secretary of State shall pay to that person a sum equal to the amount which would have been paid to him by way of return of contributions on his ceasing to be an officer if the transfer payment had not been made.

(2) If within 12 months of ceasing to participate in the Federated Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and Hospital Officers and within 5 years after ceasing to be employed as an officer by an employing authority, a person mentioned in paragraph (1) of this regulation again becomes an officer to whom Part II of the principal regulations applies, he shall be entitled, if he pays or repays to the Secretary of State any sum paid to him by the Secretary of State under the said paragraph (1), together with an amount equal to any income tax which was deducted in respect of such payment (not being a deduction under regulation 36(3) of the principal regulations), to reckon as service, in relation to the employment in which he is an officer, all periods of employment, war service or national service which he was so entitled to reckon in relation to his employment under the former employing authority immediately before the date on which he ceased to be employed by them, and as contributing service any period of national service after so ceasing to be employed.

(3) Where a person who ceased to be employed as an officer before 6th April 1975 and in respect of whom a transfer payment under regulation 76(1) of the principal regulations, or any corresponding provision previously in force by virtue of those or the previous regulations, has been made to the body administering the Federated Superannuation Scheme for Nurses and Hospital Officers—

(a) leaves the employment in which he is a participant in that scheme in circumstances other than those in which paragraph (1) of this regulation applies; and

(b) within 12 months after leaving that employment and within 5 years after ceasing to be employed as an officer again enters employment in which he is an officer; and

(c) within 3 months after entering the last-mentioned employment or within such longer period as the Secretary of State may in any particular case allow notifies the employing authority by whom he is employed in that employment that he desires the provisions of this paragraph to apply to him, then if the body administering the scheme pays to the Secretary of State a sum equal to the transfer payment, that person shall be entitled to reckon such service as he would have been entitled to reckon if there had been no break between his ceasing to be an officer and his again becoming an officer as aforesaid.

3. A lump sum payable under paragraph 1 of this schedule shall be paid within such time after the officer's election under regulation 25B as the Secretary of State may specify and instalments payable under that paragraph shall be of equal amounts spread over a whole number of years being not less than 5 years and not more than 10 years or over the whole period to the date on which the officer attains the age of 65 years if that period is less than 10 years, the first instalment to be paid within such period as the Secretary of State may specify:

Provided that—

(a) the whole of the instalments shall be paid by the date on which the officer attains the age of 65 years; and

5.—(1) For the purpose of calculating the sum to be paid by an officer under this schedule the table set out below shall be used in accordance with this paragraph.

(2) The age of an officer means his age at the material date.

(3) The remuneration of a person who at the material date was an officer, other than a practitioner, shall—

(a) for the purpose of calculating the sum to be paid in respect of contributing service otherwise than as a practitioner (other than service which would at the material date be deemed to be practitioner service under regulations 65 and 66 if a benefit were then payable), be the annual average of his remuneration during the 3 months of continous employment as such officer before the material date, or to the end of the first 3 months of such employment if that is later than the material date; and

(b) for the purpose of calculating the sum to be paid in respect of contributing service as a practitioner (including service which would at the material date be deemed to be practitioner service under regulations 65 and 66 if a benefit were then payable) which terminated before the material date, be the annual average of his total uprated remuneration (calculated in accordance with regulation 63(2)(a)) for service as a practitioner, increased by an annual amount equal to any increase which would have been payable at the material date under the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971(a) on a pension of the same amount as such annual average of his total uprated remuneration and beginning on the day following the last day of service as a practitioner had that Act applied to such pension:

(a) 1971 c. 56.

Provided that—

(i) the remuneration of such officer who at the material date was an officer specified in regulation 9(4) shall be his average remuneration increased by an annual amount equal to any increase which would have been payable at the material date under the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971 on a pension of the same amount as such average remuneration and beginning on the day on which regulation 9(4) first applied to him;

(ii) in the case of a medical or dental officer entitled under his terms of service to fees in respect of domiciliary consultations, his remuneration for the purpose of calculating the sum to be paid in respect of any contributing service to which regulation 11A would apply shall be increased by a sum equal to the amount of such fees earned by him in the last financial year ending before the material date;

(4) The remuneration of a person who at the material date was a practitioner, shall—

(a) for the purpose of calculating the sum to be paid in respect of contributing service as a practitioner (including service which would at the material date be deemed to be practitioner service under regulations 65 and 66 if a benefit were then payable), be the annual average of his total uprated remuneration (calculated in accordance with regulation 63(2)(a)) for service as a practitioner before the material date, or the annual average of his remuneration as a practitioner to the end of the first complete quarter of service as a practitioner if that is later than the material date; and

(b) for the purpose of calculating the sum to be paid in respect of contributing service otherwise than as a practitioner (other than service which would at the material date be deemed to be practitioner service under regulations 65 and 66 if a benefit were then payable) which terminated before the material date, be his annual rate of remuneration when he last ceased to be an officer other than a practitioner, increased by an annual amount equal to any increase which would have been payable at the material date under the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971 on a pension of the same amount as such annual rate of remuneration and beginning on the day following the last day of service otherwise than as a practitioner had that Act applied to such pension,

SCHEDULE 3 Regulations 8 and 9

THE CALCULATION OF TRANSFER PAYMENTS AND OF SERVICE TO BE CREDITED IN RESPECT OF TRANSFER PAYMENTS MADE TO THE SECRETARY OF STATE

Regulations 19(4) and 76(1)

PART I

CALCULATION OF TRANSFER PAYMENT

1. A transfer payment to be made in accordance with the provisions of regulation 76 in respect of a person shall be—

(a) the aggregate of the sums calculated in accordance with paragraph 2 in respect of his accrued pension, accrued retiring allowance and, if the person is a man, his accrued widow's pension, less a sum in respect of accrued modification, together with—

(b) compound interest with yearly rests, at such rate of interest as the Secretary of State may from time to time specify, in respect of each complete year beginning with the day on which the person ceased to be an officer and ending with the day on which the transfer payment is made.

2.—(1) The sums in respect of accrued pension, accrued retiring allowance and accrued modification shall be calculated by multiplying the accrued pension by the pension factor, the accrued retiring allowance by the retiring allowance factor and the accrued modification by the modification factor, such factors being the factors in the appropriate table in this schedule in relation to the person's age at the date on which he ceased to be an officer.

(2) The sum in respect of the accrued widow's pension shall be calculated by multiplying the accrued widow's pension by four.

3. In this schedule—

(a) "accrued pension" and "accrued retiring allowance" mean the annual pension and retiring allowance respectively to which the person would have become entitled if, on the date he ceased to be an officer, he had attained minimum pensionable age and had completed a specified period of service;

(b) "accrued widow's pension" means the annual widow's pension which, after the expiry of any initial period during which it might have been paid at a higher rate, would have been payable in respect of the person if, on the date he ceased to be an officer, he had been a married man who, by virtue of his having attained minimum pensionable age, had been in receipt of a pension equivalent to his accrued pension and had died;

(c) "accrued modification" means the amount by which the accrued pension would be reduced under any provision for the reduction of a pension as a consequence of the provisions of sections 30 and 36 of the National Insurance Act 1965;

(d) "minimum pensionable age" means the earliest age at which the person could have become entitled to receive payment of an unreduced pension solely by virtue of his having attained a specified age and completed a specified period of service.

4. Where a person's accrued pension is calculated partly on the scale set out in regulation 11(1) and partly on the scale set out in regulation 63(2), the transfer payment in respect of him shall be the aggregate of—

(i) a transfer payment in respect of his service otherwise than as a practitioner calculated as if he ceased to be an officer at the date on which he ceased to be an officer other than a practitioner, and

(ii) a transfer payment in respect of his service as a practitioner calculated as if he ceased to be an officer at the date on which he ceased to be a practitioner.

PART II

CALCULATION OF SERVICE

5. Subject to the provisions of paragraph 6, where a transfer payment has been made to the Secretary of State, there shall be credited to the officer in respect of whom the payment was made such contributing service as would enable the Secretary of State to make by reference to the officer's age and pensionable pay a transfer payment under regulation 76 equivalent to the amount received.

6. For the purposes of paragraph 5—

(a) in the case of an officer who was previously subject to a statutory scheme or to any other scheme which is for the time being treated by the Secretary of State as a statutory scheme for the purposes of this schedule—

(i) the calculation of the contributing service to be credited to the officer is to be made by reference to his age, and to the rate of pensionable pay used in the calculation of the transfer payment; and

(ii) any sum representing the interest included in the transfer payment is to be ignored;

(b) in the case of an officer who was previously subject to any other scheme—

(i) the calculation of the contributing service to be credited to him is to be made by reference to his age and remuneration at the annual rate payable in respect of him on the day on which he became an officer or, if the transfer value in respect of him is received by the Secretary of State more than one year after he becomes an officer, on the day on which the transfer value is received, but in the case of a practitioner the annual rate of remuneration shall be the average annual rate of his pensionable pay in respect of the 3 months immediately before his ceasing to be subject to that scheme increased by an annual amount equal to any increase which would have been payable at the date on which the transfer payment was received by the Secretary of State under the Pensions (Increase) Act 1971 on a pension of the same amount as the annual rate of the pensionable pay and beginning on the day following the last day on which he was subject to that scheme had that Act applied to such pension; and

(ii) the sum received as a transfer payment shall be deemed to be the sum which the Secretary of State determines that he would have received in respect of that officer had the transfer payment been made on the day on which he became an officer;

(c) the pension in respect of contributing service mentioned in paragraph 5 shall be deemed—

(i) in the case of a person mentioned in regulation 51(11), to be subject to regulation 51(11); or

(ii) in any other case, to be subject to reduction as provided in regulation 51(3)(c); and

(iii) to be subject to regulation 20A of the National Insurance (National Health Service Superannuation (Scotland) Scheme—Modification and Non-participation) Regulations 1966, as amended;

(d) where an amount of a person's pay has been disregarded as a consequence of any provision of the National Insurance Act 1965 or the Social Security Act 1973 the pensionable pay shall be increased by such amount;

(e) where the pensionable pay by reference to which the transfer payment received by the Secretary of State was calculated relates to a single part-time employment, or to concurrent part-time employments, the transfer payment equivalent to the amount received by the Secretary of State shall be calculated by reference to the remuneration which the Secretary of State considers would have been paid in respect of a single comparable whole-time employment.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These Regulations further amend the National Health Service (Superannuation) (Scotland) Regulations 1961 which provide for the superannuation of persons engaged in the National Health Service in Scotland.

The main changes are—

(1) a facility is introduced under which members with expectations of a reduced lump sum retiring allowance on account of widow's or widower's pension cover in respect of service before 25th March 1972 may purchase an unreduced retiring allowance by payment of additional contributions (regulations 3, 22 and schedule 1);

(2) provision is made to enable female members to nominate an incapacitated, dependent husband for a widower's pension (regulation 4);

(3) the scheme is amended so that the provisions relating to deferred benefits, qualifying service and forfeiture of rights comply with the requirements of the Social Security Act 1973 (regulations 5, 6 and 7);

(4) a new system is introduced for the transfer of pension rights between the National Health Service scheme and other superannuation schemes (regulations 8 to 13, 23, 24 and schedule 3);

(5) a facility is introduced to enable married men who elected to retain the terms of certain other schemes instead of joining the main National Health Service scheme to provide higher widow's pension cover by payment of an additional contribution (regulation 14 and schedule 2);

(6) changes are introduced in the rights of officers transferred to the National Health Service, including the extension to part-time transferred officers of the normal arrangements whereby membership of the scheme is subject to an election (regulation 16);

(7) where any payment of remuneration has been withheld in the national interest the benefits of officers who are affected may be calculated as if the payment had not been withheld (regulation 17);

(8) provision is made to increase the amount of death gratuity payable without requiring proof of title from £500 to £1,500 (regulation 18(7));

(9) provision is made to increase certain benefits to which entitlement arose in the period 1st January 1969 to 24th March 1972 (regulation 20).

Under the power in section 12 of the Superannuation Act 1972, regulation 16 has retrospective effect as from 1st August 1973; regulation 17 as from 7th November 1973; regulations 8, 9, 10, 12, 13 and 19(1)(a)(ii) as from 1st January 1974; and regulations 5 (except that part of regulation 5 introducing regulation 10(1)(a)(vi) of the principal regulations and regulation 5(6)(b)), 6 and 7 as from 6th April 1975.
