(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations revoke and replace the National Insurance (Members of the Forces) Amendment (No. 2) Provisional Regulations, 1952. They are made following the passing of the Family Allowances and National Insurance Act, 1952, which increased, as from the 6th October, 1952, the weekly rates of National Insurance contributions payable by insured persons and employers and the amounts of the Exchequer supplements to those contributions. The National Insurance (Members of the Forces) Regulations, 1949, make provision for reducing the weekly rate of the contributions which otherwise would be payable by and in respect of most serving members of the forces (as defined in those Regulations) and the appropriate Exchequer supplement to each of those contributions; and the amount of each reduction is set out in the Third Schedule to those Regulations as previously amended. These Regulations substitute, as from the 6th October, 1952, new amounts for all but two of the amounts so set out.

The preliminary draft of these Regulations was submitted to the National Insurance Advisory Committee in accordance with section 77 of the National Insurance Act, 1946, and their report thereon, dated the 29th October, 1952, is contained in House of Commons Paper No. 49 (Session 1952-53) published by Her Majesty's Stationery Office.
