PART II

Adjustment of benefit where a pension or an allowance is payable out of public funds

Adjustment of personal benefit under the Act where other personal benefit (whether under the Act or otherwise) is payable.

2.—(1) Where, for any period, any personal benefit specified in paragraph (2) of this regulation (hereafter in this regulation referred to as "the first mentioned personal benefit") is payable to any person and for that period the conditions for the receipt by that person of any personal benefit under the Act (or, where the first mentioned personal benefit is payable under the Act, any other personal benefit under the Act) are satisfied, that personal benefit shall, subject to the provisions of regulations 3 and 4, be adjusted so that the weekly rate thereof for that period shall be the appropriate weekly rate thereof for that period reduced or extinguished by the deduction therefrom of the weekly rate at which the first mentioned personal benefit is payable for that period:

Provided that, where the first mentioned personal benefit is any personal benefit specified in any paragraph of the first column of the schedule to these regulations payable under or by virtue of any enactment, scheme or instrument specified in the corresponding paragraph of the second column, any personal benefit under the Act specified in the corresponding paragraph of the third column shall not be adjusted in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this regulation by reference to the first mentioned personal benefit.

(2) The personal benefits referred to in the last preceding paragraph are—

(a) any personal benefit under the Act;

(b) any personal benefit by way of pension or allowance under the Industrial Injuries Act;

(c) any personal benefit by way of injury allowance, disablement pension or treatment allowance, or any personal death benefit by way of pension or allowance (not being a pension or allowance calculated by reference to the necessities of the beneficiary), under any Personal Injuries Scheme or Service Pensions Instrument;

Exception to regulation 2.

3.—(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in regulation 2, where, for any period, any personal benefit by way of disablement pension, injury allowance (not being injury benefit) or treatment allowance under the Industrial Injuries Act or any Personal Injuries Scheme or any Service Pensions Instrument or any 1914-1918 War Injuries Scheme (hereafter in this regulation referred to as "the first mentioned personal benefit") is payable to any person and—

(a) there is not payable with the first mentioned personal benefit (either by way of an increase thereof or as a separate personal benefit) a supplement on account of unemployability; and that personal benefit under the Act shall not be adjusted for that period in accordance with the provisions of regulation 2 by reference to the first mentioned personal benefit:

(b) for that period, the conditions for the receipt by that person of any personal benefit under the Act by way of unemployment benefit or sickness benefit are satisfied;

Provided that, in any such case, for any period before that person has paid thirteen contributions of the appropriate class in respect of contribution weeks begun or ended since the appropriate date, there shall be paid for that period only so much of the appropriate weekly rate of personal benefit by way of unemployment benefit or sickness benefit for that period as, together with the weekly rate of the first mentioned personal benefit for that period (excluding any increase thereof payable by way of allowance for constant attendance) does not exceed the weekly rate of personal benefit by way of pension payable in his case in respect of disablement in the highest degree increased by twenty shillings a week.

(2) In this regulation, the expression "appropriate date" means—

(a) in relation to a person in whose case the first mentioned personal benefit is benefit by way of pension or retired pay payable under any Service Pensions Instrument, the date on which he ceased to serve on full pay in the service in the course of which he was disabled; and Further exception to regulation 2.

4.—(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in regulation 2, where an old age pension to which this regulation applies is payable to a widow war pensioner immediately before the appropriate date or would, but for the Act, have been so payable to her on the appropriate date, then for any period beginning on or after the appropriate date for which a dependants war pension is payable to her in respect of her husband's death, the appropriate weekly rate for that period of any personal benefit under the Act by way of retirement pension payable by virtue of her husband's insurance shall not, by reason only of the dependants war pension being payable, be reduced in accordance with the provisions of regulation 2 to less than the weekly rate at which that old age pension would, but for the Act, have been so payable to her for that period.

(2) This regulation applies to any old age pension under the Old Age Pensions Act (Northern Ireland), 1936, payable by virtue of the Widows', Orphans' and Old Age Contributory Pensions Act (Northern Ireland), 1936, to a widow by virtue of her deceased husband's insurance.

(3) This regulation shall not apply in the case of any widow war pensioner unless,—

5.—(1) Where, for any period, there is payable in respect of a child any dependency benefit specified in paragraph (3) of this regulation (hereafter in this paragraph referred to as " the first mentioned dependency benefit ") and for that period the conditions for the receipt, in respect of that child, of any dependency benefit under the Act (or, where the first mentioned dependency benefit is payable under the Act, any other dependency benefit under the Act) are satisfied, that dependency benefit shall be adjusted so that the weekly rate thereof for that period shall be the appropriate weekly rate thereof for that period reduced or extinguished by the deduction therefrom of the weekly rate at which the first mentioned dependency benefit is payable for that period.

(2) Where, for any period, there is payable to a person in respect of an adult dependant any dependency benefit specified in paragraph (3) of this regulation (hereafter in this paragraph referred to as " the first mentioned dependency benefit ") and, for that period, the conditions for the receipt by that person in respect of that adult dependant or any other adult dependant or by any person in respect of that adult dependant, of any dependency benefit under the Act (or, where the first mentioned dependency benefit is payable under the Act, any other dependency benefit under the Act) are satisfied, that dependency benefit shall be adjusted so that the weekly rate thereof for that period shall be the appropriate weekly rate thereof for that period reduced or extinguished by the deduction therefrom of the weekly rate at which the first mentioned dependency benefit is payable for that period.

(3) The dependency benefits referred to in the preceding paragraphs of this regulation are any dependency benefit under the Act or the Industrial Injuries Act or any Personal Injuries Scheme or any Service Pensions Instrument or any 1914-1918 War Injuries Scheme or any training scheme except any dependency benefit by way of an allowance in respect of a child payable for the purpose of his education.

Adjustment of dependency benefit under the Act where personal benefit is payable.

6. Where for any period any one or more of the personal benefits specified in paragraph (2) of regulation 2 (not being personal benefit under the Act by way of attendance allowance) is or are payable to any person—

(a) if either—

(i) the weekly rate or the aggregate weekly rate at which that personal benefit or those personal benefits (if more than one) is or are payable for that period is equal to or exceeds twenty-six shillings a week; or

(ii) the personal benefit or one of the personal benefits payable to that person for that period is personal benefit under the Act by way of unemployment benefit or sickness benefit which is not payable at a reduced weekly rate by reason of the partial satisfaction of the appropriate contribution conditions;

there shall not be paid in respect of that person for that period any dependency benefit under the Act; and

(b) in any other case, there shall not be paid in respect of that person for that period any dependency benefit under the Act at a weekly rate exceeding the difference between the weekly rate or the aggregate weekly rate at which that personal benefit or those personal benefits (if more than one) is or are payable for that period and the rate of twenty-six shillings a week:

Provided that, where the personal benefit or one of the personal benefits payable to that person for that period is personal benefit under the Act by way of unemployment benefit or sickness benefit which is payable at a reduced weekly rate by reason of the partial satisfaction of the appropriate contribution conditions, dependency benefit under the Act shall not be paid in respect of that person for that period at a weekly rate which exceeds the weekly rate by which that personal benefit is so reduced for that period.

7. Where, for any period, any personal benefit by way of training allowance is payable to any person under any training scheme, there shall not be paid to that person for that period any dependency benefit under the Act. Dependency benefit under the Act not to be paid to a person to whom a training allowance is payable.

8. Nothing in this Part of these regulations shall be construed as requiring either— Construction of Part II.

(a) that any personal benefit under the Act by way of maternity grant or death grant shall be adjusted; or

(b) that any personal benefit or dependency benefit shall be adjusted by reason of personal benefit under the Act by way of maternity grant or death grant being payable to any person.

PART III

Adjustment of benefit of in-patients in hospitals, etc.

9.—(1) Where the conditions for the receipt of personal benefit under the Act by way of sickness benefit, widow's allowance, widowed mother's allowance, widow's pension, retirement pension, widow's basic pension or contributory old age pension are satisfied in relation to any person who receives or has received continuously, for a period exceeding fifty-six days, free in-patient treatment, the weekly rate of that personal benefit which, but for the provisions of this regulation, would be payable for any period after the first fifty-six days of that treatment shall be reduced subject to and in accordance with the following provisions of this regulation.

(2) In relation to any of the said personal benefits except a widow's basic pension and a contributory old age pension, the reduction of benefit referred to in the last preceding paragraph shall be,—

(a) after the first fifty-six days of the free in-patient treatment, for the period of that treatment during the three hundred and sixty-four days next thereafter, at the rate of ten shillings a week; and

(b) after the first four hundred and twenty days of the free in-patient treatment, during the next succeeding period of that treatment,—

(i) for any part of that period for which no dependency benefit under the Act is payable to the beneficiary and no retirement pension is payable to a wife of the beneficiary by virtue of his insurance, at the rate of twenty-one shillings a week; or

(ii) for any other part of that period, at the rate of ten shillings a week:

Provided that, in any case where a reduction of benefit at a rate determined in accordance with the foregoing provisions of this paragraph would reduce that benefit to an amount less than five shillings a week, the reduction of benefit under this regulation shall be such (if any) as may be necessary to reduce that benefit to five shillings a week.

(3) In relation to benefit by way of widow's basic pension or contributory old age pension, there shall be no reduction of benefit unless free in-patient treatment is or has been received continuously for a period exceeding four hundred and twenty days, and in that event the reduction shall be such (if any) as may be necessary to reduce that benefit to five shillings a week for the period of that treatment after the first four hundred and twenty days thereof during which no dependency benefit under the Act is payable to the beneficiary.

(4) For the purpose of calculating the said periods of fifty-six days, three hundred and sixty-four days and four hundred and twenty days (but for no other purpose), the following provisions of this paragraph shall apply:—

(a) Where a person has entered a hospital or similar institution for the purpose of receiving there medical or other treatment as an in-patient after having ceased to reside as an inmate in an institution (not being a hospital or similar institution) administered by or under the Ministry of Health and Local Government or a local authority, he shall be regarded as having received free in-patient treatment throughout the period during which he so resided.

(b) Where a person has received (or is regarded under this regulation as having received) free in-patient treatment for two or more distinct periods separated by a temporary interval or temporary intervals, he shall be regarded as having received such treatment continuously for a period, equal in duration to the total of such distinct periods, ending on the last day of the last of such periods; and for this purpose the expression "temporary interval" means a period not exceeding twenty-eight days.

(5) For the purposes of this regulation, any person who is or has been maintained in an institution (not being a hospital or similar institution) administered by or under the Ministry of Health and Local Government or a local authority and in relation to whom it has been decided by the appropriate authority that he shall be maintained there otherwise than temporarily, shall be regarded as a person who has been maintained there for a period of four hundred and twenty days.

(6) In this regulation,—

(a) the expression "free in-patient treatment" means, in relation to any person, medical or other treatment as an in-patient in a hospital or similar institution in which, during the period of that treatment, that person is or has been maintained free of charge; and

(b) the expression "hospital or similar institution" means a hospital or similar institution maintained or administered by a public or local authority or by or on behalf of the Minister of Pensions or under the Health Services Act (Northern Ireland), 1948, or a hospital or similar institution not so maintained or administered in which, pursuant to arrangements made by the Minister of Pensions, or by the Northern Ireland Hospitals Authority constituted under that Act, accommodation and medical, nursing or other services are provided.

(7) A person who, for the purpose of receiving medical treatment as an in-patient, avails himself of the hospital services provided under Part III of the Health Services Act (Northern Ireland), 1948, shall only be regarded as not being maintained free of charge if he is paying or has paid, in respect of his maintenance, charges which are designed to cover the whole cost of the accommodation and services (other than services by way of treatment) provided for that person as part of the said hospital services.

PART IV

Adjustment of sickness benefit in workmen's compensation cases

10. Where an insured person is or has been entitled, in respect of any injury or disease, to a weekly payment for total incapacity (hereafter in this regulation referred to as "the compensation payment") under the Workmen's Compensation Acts, the sickness benefit (including any increase thereof) which, but for the provisions of this regulation, would be payable to the insured person in respect of that injury or disease shall be adjusted as follows:—

(1) For any day in respect of which the insured person is or was entitled to the compensation payment during the period of one hundred and fifty-six days (Sundays being disregarded) beginning with the first day of such entitlement, the sickness benefit shall be reduced or extinguished, as the case may be, by the deduction therefrom of the amount of the compensation payment (including any part thereof payable in respect of a child or a wife) for that day.

(2) For any day of such entitlement after the expiration of the said period of one hundred and fifty-six days—

(a) the amount of personal benefit by way of sickness benefit shall not exceed three shillings and fourpence; and

(b) the amount of dependency benefit by way of sickness benefit in respect of a child or an adult dependant shall not exceed the difference between the amount of that dependency benefit which, but for the provisions of this regulation, would be payable and the amount of any compensation payment payable in respect of that child or the wife of the beneficiary (as the case may be) for that day.

(3) A person shall not be subject to the provisions of sub-paragraph (a) of the last foregoing paragraph in respect of any day if, before that day and since the appointed day, he has paid thirteen contributions of the appropriate class.

(4) For the purposes of this regulation, the amount of any compensation payment for any day shall be one sixth of the amount of the compensation payment for the week in which that day occurs:

Provided that, where the amount of the compensation payment for that week is not a multiple of sixpence, it shall be treated as the next lower amount which is a multiple of sixpence.

PART V

Miscellaneous provisions

Priority of title to increases of benefit.

11. Where, but for any of the foregoing provisions of these regulations, two persons would both be entitled to an increase of benefit under the Act in respect of a third person, the person entitled thereto shall, as between such persons, be determined in accordance with the following order of priority:—

(a) Such one of the two persons as may be designated in a written notice to the Ministry, signed by the other.

(b) Such one of the two persons as the Ministry may in its discretion determine, having regard to the circumstances of the case.

Two increases of the same benefit to be treated as separate benefits.

12. For the purposes of these regulations, in any case where dependency benefit by way of increases of benefit in respect of a child and of an adult dependant is payable, each of such increases of benefit shall be treated as a separate dependency benefit.
