CHAPTER 13

An Act to amend the Penicillin Act, 1947, for the purpose of enabling penicillin and certain other substances and preparations to be sold or supplied to and administered on board merchant ships. [15th February 1951.]

BE it enacted by the King's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

Exception for merchant ships from s. 1 of the Penicillin Act, 1947.

10 & 11 Geo. 6. c. 29.

57 & 58 Vict. c. 60.

1.—(1) Subsection (1) of section one of the Penicillin Act, 1947 (which prohibits the sale or supply of penicillin and other substances and preparations except by the persons and in the circumstances therein specified) shall not apply to the sale or supply of any substance to which the said Act applies or of any preparation of which any such substance is an ingredient or part if the sale or supply is to the owner or master of a ship on board which a supply of medicine and medical stores is required to be kept under section two hundred of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, and the substance or preparation is sold or supplied for use on board the ship.

(2) On board any such ship as aforesaid, being a ship which does not carry on board as part of her complement a duly qualified medical practitioner, the master or a person authorised by the master in that behalf may, in accordance with any applicable instructions contained in a book of instructions kept on board in pursuance of the said section two hundred, administer by way of treatment any such substance or preparation as aforesaid, and subsection (2) of section one of the Penicillin Act, 1947 (which prohibits administration by unqualified persons) shall not apply in any such case.

(3) In this section the expression "master" has the same meaning as in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894.

Citation.

2. This Act may be cited as the Penicillin (Merchant Ships) Act, 1951, and this Act and the Penicillin Act, 1947, may be cited together as the Penicillin Acts, 1947 and 1951.
