Regulation 5 enables the ex-Regular recalled from the Civil Service to the Colours to reckon his period of war service for Civil Service superannuation purposes, even if he was not eligible for balance of civil pay. (Paragraph (c)).

Regulation 6 enables the " rebel volunteer " (the civil servant who threw up his work without permission to join the Forces, etc.) who is subsequently reinstated to reckon his period of war service for Civil Service superannuation. (Paragraph (d)).

Regulation 7 enables the conscientious objector who left the Civil Service because of his refusal either to enter into the Armed Forces of the Crown or remain in the Civil Service, but who subsequently has a " change of heart " and joins the Armed Forces (or returns to the Civil Service as the case may be), and who is subsequently reinstated in the Civil Service, to count his period of service in the Forces (or in the Civil Service prior to his reinstatement) for purpose of Civil Service superannuation. (Paragraph (e)).

2. GOVERNORS OF DOMINIONS, ETC.

The Pensions (Governors of Dominions, &c.) (No. 1) Order, 1948
