(f) if the pension began after the last-mentioned date, two per cent.

In this subsection, the expression " adjusted rate ", in relation to any pension, means the aggregate annual rate of that pension after any relevant increase thereof apart from this subsection, any fraction of a pound in that aggregate being treated as a whole pound.

(2) A pension payable in respect of the pensioner's own services shall not be increased under this section unless the pensioner—

(a) has attained the age of sixty years ; or

(a) has attained the age of sixty years ; or

(b) has not attained the age of sixteen years ; or

(c) is receiving full-time instruction at an educational establishment ; or

(d) is undergoing training for a trade, profession or vocation in such circumstances that he is required to devote the whole of his time to that training for a period of not less than two years ; or

Provided that where in the case of any pension a relevant increase thereof is for the time being payable by reason of some person being deemed to be a dependant of the pensioner by virtue of subsection (3) of section one of the Pensions (Increase) Act, 1956, that person shall also be deemed to be a dependant of the pensioner for the purposes of this section.

(6) For the purposes of this section, a pensioner shall be deemed to be disabled by physical or mental infirmity if he is permanently incapacitated by such infirmity from engaging in any regular full-time employment.

Increase of certain pensions affected by further service.

2.—(1) Where a person has, after being in receipt of a pension specified in the Schedule to this Act, rendered further service by virtue of which the basic rate of that pension has fallen (or if that service had been terminated by retirement would have fallen) to be reassessed, then, if in the case of—

(a) that pension; or

(b) any other pension the basic rate of which was computed by reference to (or to what, if the said service had been terminated by retirement, would have been) the basic rate of the first-mentioned pension, not being such an other pension granted in consideration of the surrender of part of the first-mentioned pension,

(a) may include such incidental, consequential and supplemental provisions as appear to Her Majesty to be expedient;

Supplementary provisions.

5.—(1) For the purposes of this Act, a pension shall be deemed to begin on the day hereinafter specified, whether or not the pension accrues from that day, that is to say—

(3) In calculating the amount of any pension for the purposes of a relevant increase thereof under any other Act, any increase of that pension under section one or section two of this Act shall be disregarded; and, in ascertaining the rate of any pension granted to any person by reference to the rate of some other person's pension, no account shall be taken of any increase of that other person's pension under the said section one or section two.

(5) Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any Order in Council under section three thereof, any provision made by or under any enactment shall, in so far as it relates to the apportionment of the cost of a pension between two or more authorities, or to the manner in which a pension is to be paid, or to the proof of title to sums payable on account of a pension, or in so far as it prohibits or restricts the assignment or charging of a pension or its application towards the payment of debts, have effect in relation to any increase of the pension under this Act as it has effect in relation to the pension; but save as aforesaid any such increase shall not be treated as part of the pension for the purposes of any such provision as aforesaid.

(a) any expenditure incurred by a government department under or by virtue of this Act;

(2) Where any pension specified in paragraph 1, 2 or 4 or, subject to subsection (6) of section five of this Act, in paragraph 7 of Part II of the Schedule to this Act is increased under this Act, the cost of the increase shall be defrayed by the pension authority, but, where the pension authority are not the last employing authority, the last employing authority shall reimburse the cost of the increase to the pension authority.

For the purposes of this subsection, the expression "the last employing authority" means, in relation to any pension, the local authority to whom the latest services in respect of which the pension is payable were rendered, so, however, that where the functions in connection with which those latest services were rendered have been transferred to some other local authority, the said expression shall mean the local authority by whom those functions are for the time being exercisable; and any question as to who are the last employing authority for the said purposes shall, in default of agreement, be determined by the Minister of Housing and Local Government or, in Scotland, by the Secretary of State.
