Formulary are permissible. Paragraph 1 of the Schedule to these Rules places the British Veterinary Codex in the same position in this respect as those works, and recognises the change of name of the National Formulary to the British National Formulary. Paragraph 3 of the Schedule places restrictions upon the sale of monofluoroacetic acid and its salts, similar to the restrictions already placed upon the sale of strychnine by Rule 16 of the Rules of 1952 as amended, and makes provision for its sale to certain persons for use as a rodenticide on production of a prescribed certificate. The remaining paragraphs of the Schedule impose appropriate restrictions and requirements regarding certain substances now added to the Poisons List by the Poisons List Order, 1958 (S.I. 1958/1015), and make amendments necessitated by the changes of nomenclature in the case of certain poisons recognised by that Order. In particular, the list of phosphorus compounds which is set out in Rule 14 of, and the First, Third, Fifth, Seventh, Eighth and Ninth Schedules to, the Rules of 1952 as amended has been revised: certain relaxations from the general requirements are made in the case of formic acid now added to Part II of the Poisons List (paragraphs 5 and 6) and in the case of fluoroacetamide and fluoroacetanilide, also now added to Part II of the Poisons List, restrictions are imposed by paragraphs 4 (e), 8 (b), 9 (a), 10 and 12, and a relaxation is given by paragraph 6 (a). Paragraph 4 adds many of the substances newly added to the Poisons List to the list of poisons included in the First Schedule to the Rules of 1952, being a list of poisons to which special restrictions apply.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Rules, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

The principal amendments made by these Rules are as follows. Paragraph 1 of the Schedule makes some relaxation of the requirements as to the contents of prescriptions required for certain medicines when those medicines consist of preparations contained in the British National Formulary, and paragraph 5 (a) enables listed sellers of poisons to sell calcium arsenates in the form of preparations for use in agriculture or horticulture generally instead of only as insecticides and fungicides. The remaining paragraphs of the Schedule make appropriate alterations consequential upon the making of the Poisons List (No. 2) Order, 1958 (S.I. 1958/2122), and impose appropriate restrictions and requirements regarding substances now added to the Poisons List by that Order.
