by the Board of Trade for the purposes of this Order, and (b) to a person who has surrendered an "export voucher", a document issued by the Board of Trade to a person whose name is not on the Register to enable him to acquire decorated pottery to execute an order received from an export market. Decorated pottery acquired under these provisions may be supplied only by export, except that a registered exporter who has acquired direct from the manufacturer may supply to another registered exporter.

Miscellaneous

The Order also makes a number of other changes. The most important of these are as follows:—

(a) Marking: A manufacturer must mark his decorated pottery with his name, trade mark or identification symbol;

(b) Supply: The pottery described in the Third Schedule (e.g. teapots, coffee pots made with a coloured glaze, stoneware made with a coloured glaze) may now be supplied without licence, while all restriction on the types and sizes of undecorated pottery which may be supplied is removed;

(c) Records: A person who supplies decorated pottery by export must keep records of the pottery so supplied;

(d) Advertisements: Decorated pottery covered by an "export rejects" or "frustrated exports" licence must be described as such when it is being advertised or exhibited for sale;

(e) Valuation: The Order contains provisions for the computation of value in licences which limit the quantity of pottery to be supplied by reference to value.
