FORM G

Reserve and Auxiliary Forces (Protection of Civil Interests) Act, 1951, Part VI

If default in the payment of premiums on any policy mentioned in this notice is due to circumstances directly or indirectly attributable to any person (whether the policy owner or any other person) performing service in the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces of a kind described in the First Schedule to the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces (Protection of Civil Interests) Act, 1951, and at least one year's premiums have been paid on the policy before the performance of such service began, the policy owner, or any other person on his behalf, may apply in writing for relief from forfeiture under the above-mentioned Act within—

(i) 28 days from the serving of this notice, or,

(ii) if this notice is served before the beginning of the performance of service in the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces, 28 days from the beginning of such performance.

Any such application should be addressed to

.....*

* Company or society to insert address to which application to be sent or delivered.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

Part VI of the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces (Protection of Civil Interests) Act, 1951, inter alia enables the owner of an industrial assurance policy or other life or endowment policy effected with a collecting friendly society to obtain protection for his policy, subject to certain conditions, if he is unable to pay the premiums thereon as a result of service, whether performed by the owner or by another, in the Reserve and Auxiliary Forces.

These Regulations provide for the procedure in connection with the making of applications to industrial assurance companies and collecting societies for such protection, with the grant or refusal of such applications, with appeals to the Commissioner against such refusals; and for other matters required for the purpose of giving full effect to the provisions of Part VI of the Act relating to the protection of the afore-mentioned policies.
