PART V

GUARANTEED WEEKLY REMUNERATION

Paragraph 10

(1) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this Schedule, where in any week the minimum remuneration payable to any worker under those provisions would be less than the guaranteed weekly remuneration provided for by this paragraph, the minimum remuneration payable to that worker for that week shall, in lieu of the minimum remuneration which would otherwise be payable under those provisions, be the guaranteed weekly remuneration provided for by this paragraph.

(2) Guaranteed weekly remuneration in respect of any week shall be payable under this paragraph only to workers who during the three months immediately preceding that week have been in the continuous employment of the employer on work to which this Schedule applies and, for the purpose of this paragraph, a worker shall be treated as having been in the continuous employment of the employer as aforesaid in any week in which he performs any such work or throughout which he is absent on holiday or on account of the proved sickness of the worker or for any other reason acceptable to the employer.

(3) Subject as is hereinafter provided "guaranteed weekly remuneration" means—

(a) as respects a full time worker (that is to say, a worker who normally works for the employer for at least 36 hours in the week on work to which this Schedule applies) remuneration calculated in accordance with the provisions of sub-paragraph (4) hereof for four days or shifts.

(b) as respects a part-time worker (that is to say, a worker who normally works for the employer for less than 36 hours in the week on work to which this Schedule applies) remuneration calculated in accordance with sub-paragraph (4) hereof, for thirty-four forty-fifths of the hours normally worked by him in a week for the employer on work to which this Schedule applies.

(4) The guaranteed weekly remuneration in respect of any week shall be calculated as follows:—

(a) in respect of any time worked by the worker for the employer, the amount paid, or payable, by the employer to the worker in respect thereof, which amount, in so far as it is attributable to work to which this Schedule applies, shall not be less than the minimum remuneration payable in respect thereof under the provisions of this Schedule other than this paragraph;

(b) in respect of any remaining time for which guaranteed weekly remuneration is payable under the provisions of sub-paragraph (3) of this paragraph, the minimum remuneration which would be payable to the worker under the provisions of this Schedule, other than this paragraph, if he were employed as a time worker on his usual work for the employer to which this Schedule applies, and a supplemental overtime rate did not apply thereto.

(5) Guaranteed weekly remuneration is not payable in respect of any week unless during that week, in respect of the hours normally worked by the worker (excluding any time during which he is absent with the permission of the employer), the worker is

(a) capable of and available for work; and

(b) willing to perform satisfactorily his usual work or such other services as may reasonably be required by the employer when his usual work is not available for him.

(6) Guaranteed weekly remuneration is not payable in respect of any week if the worker is dismissed or suspended in that week by the employer on the ground of serious misconduct and is so informed by the employer at the time of dismissal or suspension.

(7) Guaranteed weekly remuneration is not payable in respect of any week if, during that week, or part of it, the employer is unable to provide work for the worker as the result of strike action where the strike takes place either in the establishment where the worker is employed or in some other establishment belonging to the employer.

(8) If the employer is unable to provide the worker with work because of shortage of supplies or orders or through circumstances beyond the control of the employer (other than the circumstances specified in sub-paragraph (7) above) and gives the worker seven clear days' notice to that effect, guaranteed weekly remuneration shall not be payable after the expiry of such notice in respect of any week during which or part of which the employer continues to be unable to provide work as aforesaid.

Provided that the guaranteed weekly remuneration payable to a worker in respect of the week in which the said notice expires shall be such proportion of the guaranteed weekly remuneration payable under the provisions of sub-paragraph (3) of this paragraph as the number of the worker's normal working hours on work to which this Schedule applies, falling in that week up to the expiry of the notice, bears to the number of hours in a week normally worked by the worker for the employer on work to which this Schedule applies.

(9) Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions of this paragraph, where in any week a worker is absent from work by reason of a recognised holiday allowed by the employer the guaranteed weekly remuneration payable under the said provisions (hereinafter in this paragraph referred to as "full guaranteed weekly remuneration") shall be reduced by such proportion of the full guaranteed weekly remuneration as the number of hours for which the worker is absent from work in that week by reason of the holiday aforesaid bears to the number of hours normally worked in a week by the worker for the employer on work to which this Schedule applies.

(10) Where in any week holiday remuneration or accrued holiday remuneration is payable to the worker under any wages regulation order made by the Minister to give effect to the proposals of the Council that remuneration shall be payable in addition to any guaranteed weekly remuneration payable to the worker under the foregoing provisions of this paragraph.

(11) In this paragraph,

(a) the expression "recognised holiday" means any annual or customary holiday allowed under a wages regulation order, and any other holiday or half holiday allowed by the employer to the worker upon receipt of a request made by or on behalf of the majority of workers in the establishment.

(b) the expression "week" means "pay week."

(c) the expression "day or shift" means the number of hours, exclusive of overtime, normally worked by the worker on a full working day or shift in the week, or, where the length of the full working day or shift varies during the week, the average of the number of hours (exclusive of overtime) normally worked by the worker on the first 4 full working days or shifts in the week.
