4. Legislative Context

4.1 The Safety of Sports Grounds Act 1975 provides for local authorities to issue safety certificates for designated sports grounds. Safety certificates contain such terms and conditions as the local authority considers necessary or expedient to secure reasonable safety at the sports ground. The Act creates offences in relation to the admission of spectators to a designated sports ground, in particular, where no safety certificate is in place or where the conditions of the safety certificate have been contravened.

4.2 Section 1(1) of the 1975 Act provides that the Secretary of State may by order designate as a sports ground requiring a safety certificate any sports ground which in his opinion has accommodation for more than 10,000 spectators.

4.3 This order designates the Salford City Stadium, being a sports ground which in the opinion of the Secretary of State has accommodation for more than 10,000 spectators, as a sports ground requiring a safety certificate under the 1975 Act. Similar designation orders have been issued in most years since 1976 in respect of other sports grounds.

5.1 This Order applies to England and Wales.

5.2 The Safety of Sports Grounds Act 1975 (under which this Order is made) extends to England, Wales and Scotland.

7. Policy background

- What is being done and why

7.1 The policy aim of the 1975 Act is to improve spectator safety at sports grounds. The primary responsibility for ensuring safety lies with local authorities.

7.2 The reason for designating this ground as a sports ground requiring a safety certificate is because it has accommodation for 12,062 spectators. To address any potential safety concerns at the ground, the Secretary of State believes that the ground should be designated so that the local authority for the area in which it is situated can carry out the safety certification process.

- Consolidation

7.3 The Order does not amend another instrument.

8. Consultation outcome

8.1 The Owners, the occupiers, and the relevant local authority, police force and fire service have been consulted and no objections have been raised to the designation.

9.1 There is no specific guidance issued to ensure compliance with this Order. However, local authorities are able to refer to the technical advice contained in the Government's Guide to Safety at Sports Grounds, 5th Edition, The Stationery Office, 2006 ISBN 0-11-702074, also known as the Green Guide.
