(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations relate to increases in widows' pensions and provide that where a member of a police force, acting in the execution of his duty, was attacked in a manner which in the opinion of the police authority was intrinsically likely to cause death and died as a result of the attack, the amount of his widow's pension, together with certain payments under the National Insurance Acts, 1946, shall be not less than half his pay as calculated for pension purposes. Regulations 1 and 2 make the provision in the case of deaths on or after the 1st July, 1949; Regulations 3 and 5 in the case of deaths between the 5th July 1948, and that date; and Regulations 4 and 5 in the case of deaths before the 5th July, 1948.

The Police Pensions Regulations, 1952, provided for increases in widows' pensions and children's allowances in relation to members of police forces and the present Order provides similar increases for widows and children of special constables.
