EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

Under the Special Roads Act, 1949, the highway authority for a special road provided under the Act is required to publish in the prescribed manner a notice declaring the date on which the special road is open for use as a special road. These Regulations amend, as regards England and Wales, the Special Roads (Procedure) Regulations, 1950 (which, inter alia, prescribe the procedure to be followed in connection with the making of schemes and orders under the Act) by adding a new regulation prescribing the manner in which the said notice is to be published.
