It shall be a function of the National Committee to institute and carry into effect a special scheme of recruitment to the teaching profession in Scotland of persons who last ceased to undergo full-time education before 1st September, 1950. Persons so qualified of the following classes may be selected as hereinafter provided for admission to the scheme—

(1) persons who hold the qualifications required by the Training Regulations for admission to training for the Teacher's Certificates which they respectively desire to obtain, but who have not entered upon such training,

(2) persons who, although not so qualified, are in the opinion of the National Committee likely to become so qualified after a reasonable period of study in organised courses provided or approved by the National Committee for the purpose or by other means so approved, and

(3) persons who, having been eligible for admission to emergency courses under the Supply of Teachers (Emergency Arrangements) (Scotland) Regulations, 1947(b), or earlier Regulations, leading to the Teacher's Certificate which they desire to obtain, successfully underwent furth of Scotland courses of training for the teaching profession approved for the purpose of this Regulation by the Secretary of State.

Applications for Admission to the Scheme

(2) The amount of any allowance under this Regulation shall be determined by the National Committee. In fixing the amount the National Committee shall have regard—

(a) to the expenses likely to be incurred by the student, including expenditure upon fees, upon membership of athletic and other bodies connected with the institution to be attended, upon travelling, upon books and apparatus, upon board, lodging, clothing and other necessities for himself, his spouse and dependants during term-time and vacation, and upon other purposes upon which it is reasonable and customary that expenditure should be incurred ; and

(b) to the income and other means of support available to the student, his spouse and dependants, including any bursary or other award made by an Education Authority or by the governing body of an educational endowment, and any contribution which a parent or other interested person may be willing to make.

(3) The amount of any allowance may be varied from time to time in accordance with any change of circumstances which may occur, and any allowance may be withdrawn, suspended or cancelled.

(4) Allowances may be paid in advance by instalments at such intervals and in respect of such periods as the National Committee may determine, and, after the first instalment, shall be dependent upon the satisfactory conduct and progress of the student. When the allowance covers fees at a university, central institution, training centre, training college or other educational institution, the National Committee may pay the fees direct to the appropriate authority of the institution.

(5) Applicants for allowances shall furnish the National Committee with such information as they may require, and shall notify them of any change of circumstances which may affect the amount of the allowances.

Appeals

8. Any applicant who is aggrieved by any decision of the Selection Board under these Regulations may appeal to the National Committee, who may give such directions to the Selection Board in relation to the appeal as they think fit, and the Selection Board shall give effect to any such direction.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations, but is intended to indicate their general purport.)

These Regulations enable the National Committee for the Training of Teachers to institute a special scheme for the recruitment to the teaching profession in Scotland of persons who ceased to undergo full-time education before 1st September, 1950. The scheme is open to three classes of persons—those who are qualified for admission to training but have not entered upon training; those not qualified to enter upon training who are thought likely to become qualified after further study; and those who were eligible for training under the Scottish emergency scheme but were successfully trained furth of Scotland in courses approved for the purposes of the Regulations by the Secretary of State. An allowance may be paid by the National Committee to any person admitted to the scheme towards the cost of fees, travelling expenses, etc., and of the maintenance of himself, his spouse and dependants, regard being had to the income and other means of support available. The approved expenditure of the National Committee under the Regulations will be met by grants from the Education (Scotland) Fund.
