PART III

METHOD OF CHARGING

Counting of words

8. Subject to the provisions of these regulations, the contents of telegrams shall be reckoned, and telegrams charged for with reference to their contents, according to the following rules :—

(a) In calculating the number of words of any telegram, any name or address, whether of the sender or of an addressee, which is to be transmitted with the message contained therein shall be treated as part of the telegram.

(b) Where a combination of words is, by the usage of the English language, recognized as one word, whether written together, with or without a mark of abbreviation, or joined by a hyphen, such combination, when so written, shall be counted as one word. In all other cases a combination of words is to be counted according to the number of separate words contained in it.

(c) In the address of the addressee of a telegram:

(i) the essential designation of the place of address, that is to say, the name of the town or village together with the name (if any) of the locality or district (other than the street, road, lane, court or square or the like) in which the address is situated, shall be counted as one word ;

(ii) any additions which are made to the name of the place of address to distinguish that place from another place of the same name, or to distinguish one street from another street of the same name in the same postal district, shall be treated as part of the essential designation of the place of address ;

(iii) the name of a railway station not in a town postal district, or of a coastguard station, shall be counted as one word ;

(iv) initial letters or figures, or a combination of initial letters and figures, indicating a postal district shall together be counted as one word, except when used in conjunction with the name of a town, in which last-mentioned case they shall not be charged for.

(d) In the case of the names of places, each and every place name of any of the following classes shall, when used in the text of a telegram, be counted as one word, viz.:—

(i) The name of any town or village in the British Islands.

(ii) The name of any railway station, not in a town postal district.

(iii) The name of any district or locality in a town.

(iv) The name of any overseas telegraph office, contained in the official list of telegraph offices published by the General Secretariat of the International Telecommunication Union.

(e) In the names of persons, every patronymic such as O', Mc, Mac, Fitz, and every prefix such as De, De la, St, shall be counted as part of the word or name next following the same, and every compound name which is ordinarily joined together by a hyphen or hyphens shall be counted as one word when so written. Every other combination of names shall be counted according to the number of separate words or names contained therein.

(f) In registered addresses the indicator word of any such address denoting the office or mode of delivery, shall be counted as part of the registered address and not as a separate word.

(g) Initial letters whether written as small letters or as capital letters shall be counted and charged for in manner following, that is to say:—

(i) Where such letters are written separately and are intended to be telegraphed separately and not as a group each such letter shall be counted and charged for as if it were a word notwithstanding that such letters may together form or be intended to be read or construed as a combination of letters.

(ii) Where such letters are written together and are intended to be telegraphed together as a single group comprising not more than five letters such group shall be counted and charged for as if it were one word.

(iii) Where such letters are written together and are intended to be telegraphed together as a single group comprising more than five letters the first five letters thereof shall be counted and charged for as one word and each and every succeeding five letters or residual fraction of five letters shall be counted and charged for as one word:

Provided that a group of letters comprising not more than ten letters used in the signature of a telegram to represent the name of the sender shall if it forms a pronounceable expression be counted and charged for as one word.

(h) Each of the following combinations of letters and signs shall be counted as one word, that is to say:—

s/s a/c b/l and c/o.

In other combinations of letters and signs, each sign shall be counted as one word, and the letters and/or group or groups of letters separated by such sign shall severally be counted as otherwise provided for by these regulations.

(i) Each of the following signs or marks shall be charged as one word, that is to say:—

(i) A stroke or line under a word or words intended to underline or emphasize the same.

(ii) A parenthesis (both signs), except that when the brackets enclose special instructions referred to in regulation sixteen they are not counted.

(iii) Inverted commas (both signs).

(iv) A full stop.

(v) A mark of interrogation.

(j) Numbers expressed in figures shall be counted at the rate of five figures to a word.

(k) Ordinal numbers expressed in figures and letters shall be counted according to the last preceding rule, letters being reckoned as figures.

(l) An oblique stroke, horizontal bar, hyphen, multiplication sign, decimal point, or full stop, used with a figure or group of figures, shall be counted as a figure.

(m) Any letters following and forming part of the designation of a fraction shall count as figures.

(n) A combination of figures and letters in the address or text of a telegram, when denoting the number of a house, and a similar combination in the text when denoting a telephone or telex number, shall be counted as though the letters were figures.

(o) A letter or unintelligible combination of letters used with figures and not coming under any of the foregoing rules shall be counted separately from such figures.

(p) Sums of money expressed in figures combined with letters, bars, or other signs shall be counted according to the foregoing rules.

(q) When sums of money are expressed partly in figures and partly in words, each figure or group of figures shall be counted separately.

(r) Where a telephone or telex number is used as the address of a telegram, that part of the address which consists of the telephone or telex number (including the name of the exchange, if any), and the name of the town where necessary, shall be counted as two words, the name or names of the addressee being separately counted as otherwise provided by these regulations.

(s) Service indications inserted before the address of a telegram shall not be counted.

(t) Special instructions referred to in regulation sixteen shall be counted and charged for as part of the telegram.

Foreign languages

9. Telegrams written in Latin or in Esperanto or in any modern European language, and in English characters, shall be counted and charged for in the same way as telegrams written in the English language, but all words not forming part of any modern European language, or of Latin or of Esperanto, and all unintelligible combination of letters, shall (except as otherwise provided) be counted and charged for at the rate of five letters to a word.

PART IV

(2) The address of an overnight telegram shall be a full postal address.

(3) An overnight telegram shall be delivered by post, or, if the Postmaster-General thinks fit, by messenger, by telephone, or by any other means.

(4) The charge for the transmission of an overnight telegram shall cover the cost of its delivery.

(5) Regulations twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-five and twenty-six shall not apply to overnight telegrams.

PART V

General

11. The services and facilities referred to in this part of these regulations may be provided by the Postmaster-General at such times, during such periods, and in such circumstances as the Postmaster-General may think fit, and the charges and conditions specified in this part of these regulations shall apply to such services and facilities in so far as they are so provided.

Delivery at two or more addresses

12.—(1) A telegram (not being an overnight telegram or a priority telegram) may, at the request of the sender, be delivered at two or more addresses outside the London Postal Area which are within the limits of free delivery by messenger from the same terminal telegraph office, or at two or more addresses within the London Postal Area which are in the same postal district.

(2) There shall be charged and paid for a telegram which is to be so delivered:

(a) the sum or sums payable under these regulations for the transmission of the telegram as a single telegram, counting as chargeable (in addition to the words of the text) all the addresses at which the telegram is to be delivered and the names of all the addressees; and

(b) in respect of each address at which the telegram is to be delivered, after the first, the sum of one shilling and (in the case of a greetings telegram) the further sum of sixpence.

(3) Where a telegram is to be so delivered to two or more addresses within the London Postal Area, and any of the addresses is a registered address or a telephone or telex number, the sender shall add the postal district initials after such address. The postal district initials shall not form part of the matter telegraphed or be charged for.

Payment for reply

13. The sender of a telegram may pay for the transmission of a reply thereto at the appropriate rate or rates: Provided that the sum so paid by the sender shall in no case be less than one shilling and sixpence or exceed twelve shillings.

Reply vouchers

14.—(1) When a reply to a telegram has been provided for by the sender pursuant to regulation thirteen, a reply voucher may be delivered to the addressee. The voucher may be used by the addressee or any other person:

(a) in payment or part payment of the charges on a telegram or a number of telegrams tendered together, whether or not sent in reply to the original telegram, and whether or not addressed to the sender of the original telegram; or

(b) in the discretion of the Postmaster-General, in payment or part payment of any account rendered by the Postmaster-General for charges for telegraph or telephone services.

(2) If the voucher is not so used, the sum paid for the reply will be repaid to the sender of the original telegram on surrender of the voucher.

(3) If the original telegram is undeliverable, the sum paid by the sender for the reply may, in the discretion of the Postmaster-General, be refunded to the sender at the time of any notification to him of the non-delivery of the original telegram.

Repetition of telegrams

15.—(1) The sender of a telegram may have it repeated back from office to office. The charge for the repetition shall be one-half of the ordinary rate or of the overnight rate as the case may be (any fraction of one halfpenny being charged as one halfpenny), and shall be paid at the same time as the charge for transmission.

(2) The addressee of a telegram may have repeated from the office of origin without charge the telegram or any words or passages contained therein which appear to him to be incorrect.

Special instructions on telegram envelopes

16. When the sender of a telegram desires that special instructions, such as "private," "confidential," or "to be opened at once," shall be written on the envelope containing the transcript of the telegram which is to be delivered to the addressee, he shall write the instructions on the telegram form immediately before the address.

Cancellation by sender

17. The sender of a telegram may cancel it before delivery to the addressee, subject to the following provisions:—

(a) If the application for cancellation is made before the transmission of the telegram from the office of origin has commenced, the sum due from the sender shall be one shilling only and any amount in excess of this sum prepaid by him shall be refunded.

(b) If the application is made after the commencement but before the completion of the transmission of the telegram from the office of origin, the sum due from the sender in respect of the telegram shall be the charge for transmission. Any amount prepaid by him in respect of delivery or for a reply telegram shall be refunded.

(c) If the application is made after the transmission of the telegram from the office of origin has been completed, it may still be cancelled, if practicable, by means of a service telegram addressed to the Postmaster of the office of delivery. The sender of the original telegram shall pay for the transmission of the service telegram at the ordinary rate, and the further sum of one shilling and sixpence if the service telegram is sent on a Sunday, or is sent on Christmas Day or Good Friday in any part of the British Islands other than Scotland. In a case to which this paragraph applies, the sum paid by or due from the sender in respect of the original telegram shall not be refunded or shall remain due as if the question of cancellation had not arisen, except that any charge for delivery or for a reply telegram may, in the discretion of the Postmaster-General, be refunded or waived.

Receipt for charges

18. The sender of a telegram shall be entitled, free of charge, to a receipt for the charges prepaid on a telegram, in such form as the Postmaster-General shall approve.

Re-direction and re-transmission

19.—(1) A telegram may at the discretion of the Postmaster-General be re-directed and re-transmitted by the Postmaster-General to the addressee at any other address, either at the specific request of the sender or the addressee or in accordance with any special instructions registered as provided in regulation twenty or for any other reason that the Postmaster-General may consider sufficient.

(2) A telegram may be re-directed from its original address or any substituted address by any person at such address for the purpose of its being re-transmitted to the addressee at any other address.

(3) There shall be charged and paid in respect of each re-transmission of a telegram otherwise than by post under paragraph (1) of this regulation the same sums as would be payable if the re-transmission were an original transmission of the telegram at the ordinary rate to the address to which it is to be re-transmitted, excluding any additional charge referred to in regulation five: Provided that:—

(a) In the case of a telegraph money order, the charge for re-transmission shall be three shillings for the telegram authorising payment at the office of payment and, if words containing a private communication from the remitter are added to the telegram, the further sum of threepence for each word so added;

(b) When the Postmaster-General deems it just so to do he may substitute a fixed charge of three shillings for all other charges for re-direction and re-transmission.

(4) No charge shall be payable for the re-transmission of a telegram by post under paragraph (1) of this regulation.

(5) A telegram re-directed and re-transmitted otherwise than by post under paragraph (2) of this regulation shall be treated as a fresh telegram for the purpose of these regulations, and accordingly the ordinary rate or the overnight rate (whichever may be appropriate, without regard to the rate which was payable in respect of the original transmission), and any additional charge payable under regulation five, shall be charged and paid in respect of each such re-transmission.

(6) There shall be charged and paid in respect of each re-transmission of a telegram by post under paragraph (2) of this regulation such sums (if any) as would be payable if the telegram were a letter re-directed under the provisions of the Inland Post Warrant 1947(a), or any Warrant amending or replacing the same.

(a) S.R. & O. 1947/2663 (Rev. XVIII, p. 277: 1947 I, p. 1793).

(7) The charges payable under paragraphs (3), (5) and (6) of this regulation shall be payable—

(a) where the telegram is re-transmitted under paragraph (1) of this regulation at the request of the sender, by the sender on demand ;

(b) where it is re-transmitted under the said paragraph (1) in any other circumstances, by the addressee on demand ;

(c) where it is re-directed under paragraph (2) of this regulation, by the person by whom it is re-directed or by the addressee on demand, at the discretion of the Postmaster-General.

Special instructions for delivery

20.—(1) Any person may register, at any telegraph office, such special instructions as to the delivery of telegrams at a different address in case of a change of residence or place of business, or such other special instructions as to the delivery of telegrams, as the Postmaster-General may approve.

(2) In respect of the registration of any such special instructions as aforesaid the sum of £1. 11s. 6d. shall be paid in advance at the time of registration, and when the instructions apply to a longer period than a year the sum payable shall be £1. 11s. 6d. per annum: Provided that no charge shall be made under this regulation in respect of:—

(a) the registration for any period up to and not exceeding three months of an instruction in case of change of residence or place of business ;

(b) the registration of an instruction as to the delivery of telegrams on Christmas Day, Good Friday, or a public holiday ; or

(c) the registration of any instruction as to telegrams bearing registered addresses.

Registered addresses

21.—(1) Application may be made for the registration, at any office from which telegrams are delivered (provided it be a head office, a country sub-office, or a railway station not in a town postal district), of an abbreviated or an arbitrary telegraphic address.

(2) If in the opinion of the Postmaster-General there is no objection to such registration, such abbreviated or arbitrary telegraphic address shall be registered, together with the full correct address of the applicant.

(3) There shall be paid for such registration such sum (hereinafter called a registration fee) as may from time to time be prescribed and such registration fee shall be paid in advance. Provided that the registration fee shall not exceed:—

18s. 9d. in respect of a period not exceeding three months ;

£1. 17s. 6d. in respect of a period exceeding three but not exceeding six months ;

£2. 12s. 6d. in respect of a period exceeding six but not exceeding nine months ; and

£3 in respect of a period exceeding nine months but not exceeding a year.

(4) While such abbreviated or arbitrary telegraphic address is registered, and during the period in respect of which the registration fee has been paid, telegrams addressed to such address and received at the office at which the registration has been effected shall be delivered as if they were addressed to the corresponding full correct address.

(5) The Postmaster-General may at any time, if it shall seem to him expedient, cancel the registration of any registered address, but he shall in such case return a part of the registration fee proportionate (as near as may be) to the unexpired portion of the period in respect of which a registration fee has been paid.

(6) An expression registered as an abbreviated or arbitrary telegraphic address shall be regarded for the purpose of charge as though written in the English language, whether in the address, the text or the signature of a telegram.

PART VI

Provided that a greetings telegram shall not be so delivered except by arrangement between the Postmaster-General and the addressee;

(b) any telegram may at the discretion of the Postmaster-General be delivered by post:

(i) if in his opinion it will reach the addressee by that means not later than if it were delivered by messenger; or

(c) any telegram may at the discretion of the Postmaster-General be delivered by pneumatic tube or other mechanical means.

23.—(1) The sender of a telegram may insert before the full address any of the following service indications relating to the manner of delivery of the telegram:

(a) the word "post", the name of the office of posting being inserted at the end of the address if the Postmaster-General so requires;

(b) the words "hand delivery"; or

(c) the word "telephone" or "telex";

or may use a telephone or telex number as the address of the telegram.

(2) Where the service indication "post" is used, the telegram shall be delivered by post.

(3) Where the service indication "hand delivery" is used, the telegram shall be delivered by messenger, or, if either of the conditions mentioned in sub-paragraph (b) of paragraph (2) of regulation twenty-two is satisfied, by post.

(4) Where the service indication "telephone" is used, or the address of the telegram is a telephone number, the telegram shall be delivered by telephone or by teleprinter or other electrical apparatus, unless the Postmaster-General elects to deliver it by any other means.

(5) Where the service indication "telex" is used, or the address of the telegram is a telex number, the telegram shall be delivered by teleprinter or other electrical apparatus unless the Postmaster-General elects to deliver it by any other means.

24.—(1) A telegram shall be duly delivered by messenger or by post if it is delivered at the place of address of the telegram, or at an address to which it is re-directed in accordance with these regulations, or to the addressee in person.

(2) A telegram shall be duly delivered by telephone if it is telephoned to the addressee or his servant or agent or other person purporting to be authorised to receive the telegram.

(3) A telegram shall be duly delivered by teleprinter or other electrical apparatus if it is transmitted by such means to the place of address of the telegram, or to an address to which it is re-directed in accordance with these regulations.

Free delivery

25.—(1) Subject to the provisions of paragraphs (2) and (3) of regulation twenty-six, the charge for the transmission of a telegram shall cover the cost of delivery by messenger at any address within the limits of free delivery by messenger specified in paragraph (2) of this regulation, or the cost of delivery by any other means at any address whether within or outside those limits.

(2) The limits of free delivery by messenger shall be three miles from the terminal telegraph office from which delivery is effected:

Provided that the Postmaster-General may prescribe limits of free delivery in excess of three miles in relation to such terminal telegraph offices or classes of terminal telegraph office as he thinks fit, either generally or at particular times or in particular circumstances, and different limits may be prescribed in relation to different offices or classes of office and different times and circumstances.

Charge for delivery by messenger

26.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations, there shall be charged and paid for the delivery of a telegram by messenger at an address beyond the limits of free delivery by messenger the sum of ninepence for each mile or part of a mile of the distance of that address from the boundary of the free delivery area.

(2) When a telegram is addressed to a person on board a vessel not alongside a wharf, pier or jetty, or to a person at an address so situate that a boat must be used for the purpose of, or is the usual and most expeditious means of, delivering a telegram to any such vessel or address, there shall be charged and paid for the delivery of such telegram by messenger, at whatever distance from the terminal telegraph office the place of address is situate, a sufficient sum to cover the cost of boat hire in addition to any sum chargeable under this regulation in respect of the distance such telegram is conveyed by land.

(3) The sender and the Postmaster-General may make an agreement as to the delivery of a telegram by special means, and in any such case all expenses incurred by the Postmaster-General in pursuance of such agreement shall be paid by the sender as though such expenses were sums directed to be charged and paid under these regulations.

(4) The sender if the Postmaster-General so requires shall deposit or arrange to pay such sum as may be required by the Postmaster-General for boat hire or other special means of delivery. If any portion of any sum deposited is not ultimately required that portion shall be returned to the sender.

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in this regulation the Postmaster-General may make an agreement with the addressee of any telegram or telegrams for the payment by the addressee of special charges for the delivery of such telegram or telegrams by messenger at an address (outside the limits of free delivery by messenger) where, owing to the distance of the address from the terminal telegraph office, or for any other reason, the cost of delivery by messenger would exceed the sum chargeable under paragraph (1) of this regulation.

Addresses of telegrams to members of H.M. Forces

28.—(1) Where a telegram is addressed to a member of Her Majesty's naval, military, or air forces, or to a member of a nursing service or other auxiliary service of any of those forces, at any camp, barracks, station or airfield in the British Islands, the Postmaster-General may require the sender to include the prescribed particulars in the address of the telegram.

(2) Where the prescribed particulars in the address of any such telegram would, under these regulations, count as more than five words, they shall be charged for as five words.

(3) In this regulation the expression "the prescribed particulars" means the number, rank and name of the addressee of the telegram; the squadron, battery, company or other section of the unit; the address of the camp, barracks, station or airfield; and such other particulars as the Postmaster-General may require or allow.

Name and address of sender

29.—(1) The Postmaster-General may require the sender of any telegram, before it is accepted for transmission, to sign his name and write his address on the telegram form in the space provided for the purpose, but the sender's name and address need not be part of the matter telegraphed.

(2) The Postmaster-General may, if he thinks fit, accept as compliance with this regulation the insertion in typewriting, or in print, or by means of a rubber stamp, of the name and address, telephone or telex number or registered address of the sender.

30. No telegram written otherwise than in English characters shall be transmitted or tendered for transmission.

Objectionable telegrams not transmitted

31. No telegram shall be transmitted or tendered for transmission which contains anything which is grossly offensive or of an indecent, obscene or menacing character.

Deposit of telegrams in letter boxes

32.—(1) A telegram deposited in a post office letter box shall be transmitted as a telegram if postage stamps in full prepayment of the charges for the transmission and delivery of the telegram are attached thereto and the telegram complies in other respects with the provisions of these regulations, and otherwise may be so transmitted if the Postmaster-General thinks fit.

(2) If no stamps or insufficient stamps are attached to a telegram which is so deposited and transmitted, the charges for transmission and delivery, or, as the case may be, the amount of the deficiency, shall (if not collected from the addressee) be paid by the sender.

Telegrams to be called for

33. Any telegram addressed to a telegraph office or post office "to be called for" shall be retained for two weeks. At the end of that time the telegram, if not called for, shall be treated as not deliverable.

Cancellation

34. Except as otherwise provided in these regulations, a telegram which has been accepted for transmission shall not be cancelled, and its transmission or delivery shall not be suspended or interfered with, on the application of any person.

Payment of charges

35. All charges in respect of the transmission and delivery of a telegram and in respect of services and facilities in relation thereto, shall (except as herein otherwise provided, or as the Postmaster-General may determine) be prepaid by the sender thereof.

Remission of charges

36. The Postmaster-General may remit in whole or in part any sum payable or paid under these regulations.
