PART II

PROVISION OF TELEPHONE SERVICE, EQUIPMENT AND APPARATUS

Application of Part II

2. This part of these regulations applies to the provision by the Postmaster-General of telephone service, not being telephone service provided under an agreement or by means of a call office.

Provision of telephone service

3. Telephone service shall be provided by means of an installation consisting of such equipment and apparatus as the Postmaster-General from time to time considers appropriate, regard being had to the subscriber's requirements and the interests of the public telephone system as a whole.

Method of application and contents of application form

4.—(1) Application for telephone service to be provided, or for the installation provided to be altered or removed, or for equipment or apparatus to be added thereto or taken therefrom, shall if the Postmaster-General so requires be made on a form furnished by him and signed by the subscriber.

(2) The Postmaster-General may include in an application form furnished by him under this regulation:—

(a) a statement of the component parts of the installation which is to be provided by him, or of the component parts which are to be added to or taken from the installation already provided by him, in pursuance of the application;

(b) a statement of the current rate or amount of any rental or other charges which are to be paid in respect of the component parts of the installation and are fixed by these regulations; and

(c) statements of such other matters as the Postmaster-General thinks expedient.

(3) The Postmaster-General shall notify the subscriber, either in the relative application form or by other notice in writing, of the rate or amount of any rental or other charges which are to be paid in respect of the component parts of the installation and are fixed by the Postmaster-General under these regulations.

Conditions relating to particular installations

5.—(1) The following terms and conditions shall apply respectively in relation to telephone service provided under these regulations by means of installations which are of the following descriptions or are provided in the following circumstances:—

(a) where the installation is intended to be connected with telephone equipment or apparatus provided otherwise than by the Postmaster-General, the terms and conditions set out in Part 1 of the First Schedule hereto;

(b) where the installation consists of or includes an extension between switchboards, the term or condition set out in Part 2 of the said Schedule;

(c) where the installation consists of or includes an external extension connecting premises occupied by the subscriber with premises occupied by another person, the term or condition set out in Part 3 of the said Schedule;

(d) where the installation is a private circuit, the terms and conditions set out in Part 4 of the said Schedule;

(e) subject to regulation fourteen of the Telephone Regulations, 1951, where telephone service is provided by means of an exclusive line to which the rates of rental specified in the column of the Third or Fourth Schedule hereto headed "residence rate" are applied by or under regulation ten hereof, the term or condition that the telephone service provided thereby may at any time if the Postmaster-General so decides be provided by means of a shared line.

(2) Where telephone service is provided for two or more subscribers by means of shared lines whereof parts are used by those subscribers in common with each other, and the Postmaster-General provides one meter for recording all calls (other than those which are recorded by means of tickets) made from the telephones provided for both or all those subscribers, the Postmaster-General may from time to time direct that the term or condition set out in Part 1 of the Second Schedule hereto shall be binding upon one only of those subscribers; and in making any such direction the Postmaster-General shall have regard to any agreement made between those subscribers for settling which of them shall be liable to the Postmaster-General for the charges for such calls.

(3) The Postmaster-General may from time to time direct that the following terms and conditions shall apply in relation to the telephone service provided under these regulations by means of an installation in the following circumstances:—

(a) where in the opinion of the Postmaster-General the premises at which telephone service is or is to be provided are subject to abnormal risk of fire or explosion, the terms and conditions set out in Part 2 of the Second Schedule hereto;

(b) where the circumstances are such that the Postmaster-General considers that any special terms or conditions should apply for the prevention of injury to persons or for the protection of the installation or of any other equipment or apparatus of the Postmaster-General, or in order to restrict the use of the installation or any part thereof to the purposes for which it was designed, such terms and conditions as the Postmaster-General may determine in the particular case.

(4) Where the Postmaster-General gives any direction under this regulation, he shall notify the subscriber thereof either in the relative application form furnished by the Postmaster-General under regulation four or by other notice in writing.

Termination of service by notice

6.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations, at any time after an installation has been connected for use:—

(a) the Postmaster-General may, after giving to the subscriber at least one month's notice in writing of his intention so to do, cease to provide telephone service by means of the installation; or

(b) the subscriber may give to the Postmaster-General notice in writing requiring him to cease to provide telephone service by means of the installation.

(2) If the Postmaster-General gives a notice under paragraph (1), the liability of the subscriber to pay rental in respect of the installation shall cease on the expiration of the notice, without prejudice to any liability of his which has previously accrued. If the subscriber gives a notice under paragraph (1), his liability to pay rental in respect of the installation shall cease on the expiration of one month from the date on which the Postmaster-General receives the notice, or on the expiration of the notice, whichever is the later, without prejudice to any liability of the subscriber which has previously accrued or which may arise under regulation seven.

(3) This regulation shall not relieve the subscriber from liability to pay rental in respect of the installation for any period during which the Postmaster-General, after giving or receiving a notice under paragraph (1), continues at the request of the subscriber to provide telephone service by means of the installation.

(4) Where the subscriber gives a notice under paragraph (1), the Postmaster-General may cease to provide telephone service by means of the installation as soon after he receives the notice as he considers practicable:

Provided that, without prejudice to any other powers of the Postmaster-General under these regulations, if the subscriber in his notice specifies a date on which it is to take effect, the Postmaster-General shall not cease to provide telephone service under this paragraph before that date, unless the subscriber after giving the notice requests him so to do.

(5) The Postmaster-General may remove the installation within such time as he thinks fit after ceasing to provide telephone service thereby under this regulation.

(6) The Postmaster-General shall repay to the subscriber or allow him in account the appropriate proportion of any rental paid in advance in respect of a period ending after the date on which his liability to pay rental ceases by virtue of this regulation.

(7) In this regulation the word "installation" means in a case where the circumstances so require equipment or apparatus forming part of an installation.

Premature cesser of service

7.—(1) The Postmaster-General may for the purpose of this regulation determine in respect of any installation a period (in these regulations referred to as "the minimum period of service"), beginning with the day on which the installation was connected for use, and shall notify the subscriber thereof either in the relative application form furnished by the Postmaster-General under regulation four or by other notice in writing.

(2) Where, after an installation has been connected for use, it ceases to be provided before the expiration of the minimum period of service as a result of a notice given by the subscriber in accordance with regulation six or paragraph (3) of regulation twenty, or otherwise at the instance of the subscriber, he shall pay on such cesser, towards recompensing the Postmaster-General for loss of revenue by way of charges in respect of the provision of the installation, such sum (if any) as may be assessed by the Postmaster-General in accordance with the following provisions of this regulation:

Provided that such sum shall not be payable where the installation ceases to be provided as a result of a notice given by the subscriber to the Postmaster-General in consequence of an increase in the rate of rental payable in respect of the installation by virtue of paragraph (1) of regulation ten, being a notice given before or within fourteen days after the date on which the increase takes effect or is due to take effect.

(3) Such sum shall not exceed the amount of rental which would have been payable for the installation in respect of the period from the date when the installation ceases to be provided to the end of the minimum period of service, if the installation had been provided for the whole of the first mentioned period and if the rates of rental applicable to the installation at the time when it ceased to be provided had remained unchanged to the end of that period; and in assessing the said sum the Postmaster-General shall make such allowance as he may consider reasonable for any use which he is or may be able to make of the work done in installing the equipment and apparatus comprised in the installation, and of the equipment and apparatus, for the purpose of providing telephone service for any person other than the subscriber.

(4) Nothing in this regulation shall prevent the Postmaster-General from ceasing to provide telephone service by means of the installation under regulation six or under regulation thirty-nine, or from suspending or terminating such service under regulation forty-two, before the expiration of the minimum period of service.

(5) In the foregoing paragraphs of this regulation the word "installation" means in a case where the circumstances so require equipment or apparatus forming part of an installation.

(6) Where at the request of the subscriber equipment or apparatus is added to an installation, the Postmaster-General may at his discretion either determine a minimum period of service in respect of only the added equipment or apparatus (including any additional or substituted switching equipment which the Postmaster-General considers it necessary or desirable to provide in consequence), or determine a fresh minimum period of service in respect of the whole installation including the added equipment or apparatus and any such switching equipment.

Cancellation of application for service

8.—(1) Where work done by the Postmaster-General for the purpose of installing equipment or apparatus for the benefit of a subscriber is rendered abortive for that purpose before the connection of the equipment or apparatus for use by the cancellation of the application or in consequence of anything done, omitted, permitted, or suffered by the subscriber, he shall pay towards recompensing the Postmaster-General for the cost incurred by him in doing the work a sum assessed by the Postmaster-General in accordance with the following provisions of this regulation.

(2) Such sum shall not exceed whichever is the smaller of the following amounts:—

(a) the cost incurred by the Postmaster-General in doing the work;

(b) the total amount which would have been payable by way of rental for the minimum period of service in respect of the equipment or apparatus if it had been connected for use and provided for the whole of that period and if the rates of rental specified in the application form in respect of it, or otherwise notified to the subscriber before the work was begun, had been applicable to the installation during the whole of that period;

and in assessing the said sum the Postmaster-General shall make such allowance as he may consider reasonable for any use which he is or may be able to make of the said work in providing telephone service for any person other than the subscriber.

PART III

RENTALS

Application of Part III

9. This part of these regulations applies to installations provided by the Postmaster-General otherwise than under an agreement.

Rental for installations

10.—(1) The subscriber shall pay in respect of an installation rental at the rate applicable under the following provisions of this regulation.

(2) The rate of rental in respect of an installation shall be the total of the rates which, in respect of each component part thereof, are either specified in the appropriate Schedule hereto, or are fixed by the Postmaster-General as hereinafter provided.

(3) Where the installation includes one or more exchange lines connected with a telephone exchange (other than a telephone exchange to which less than eight subscribers are for the time being connected, or a telephone exchange which in the opinion of the Postmaster-General is not the appropriate exchange to serve the subscriber and with which the installation has been connected at the subscriber's request), and the installation was not provided under the rural party line scheme, the appropriate Schedule shall be the Third Schedule hereto.

(4) Where the installation includes one or more exchange lines connected with a telephone exchange to which less than eight subscribers are for the time being connected, the appropriate Schedule shall be the Fourth Schedule hereto.

(5) (a) The rate specified in the column of the Third or Fourth Schedule hereto headed "residence rate" shall apply to an exchange line so long as the subscriber's premises are used solely for residential purposes, and the rate specified in the column of the said Third or Fourth Schedule headed "business rate" shall apply to an exchange line so long as the subscriber's premises are used solely for purposes other than residential purposes.

(b) In any case in which sub-paragraph (a) of this paragraph does not apply, the Postmaster-General may from time to time decide which of the said rates shall apply to an exchange line, and in making such decision the Postmaster-General shall take into account all the circumstances of the case, including the purposes (whether social and domestic, or otherwise) for which the installation of which the exchange line forms part is being used or is in his opinion likely to be used. The Postmaster-General shall notify the subscriber of any such decision either in the relative application form furnished by him under regulation four or otherwise by notice in writing.

(c) The foregoing sub-paragraphs of this paragraph shall have effect subject to the provisions of paragraph (1) of regulation twelve of the Telephone Regulations, 1951, and paragraph (2) of regulation two of the Telephone Amendment (No. 3) Regulations, 1957(a).

(6) Where the installation includes any exchange line connected with a telephone exchange to which less than twenty subscribers are for the time being connected, and telephone service is at the request of the subscriber provided by means of that exchange line through the medium of another telephone exchange at hours during which telephone service is not provided by the first mentioned telephone exchange, the rate of rental in respect of the exchange line shall be increased by seven shillings and sixpence a quarter.

(7) Where the installation is a private circuit, the appropriate Schedule shall be the Fifth Schedule hereto.

(8) Provided that where—

(a) none of the said Schedules is appropriate to the installation, or

(b) no rate is specified in the appropriate Schedule in respect of a particular component part of the installation, or

(c) the Postmaster-General considers that, in order to meet the subscriber's requirements, it is necessary for the installation or any component part thereof to consist of non-standard equipment or apparatus or to be constructed by non-standard or exceptionally expensive methods of construction, or

(d) the subscriber requires the installation or any component part thereof to be provided for a period of less than one year, or

(e) the installation is a private circuit connecting three or more points in such manner as to provide communication between all such points simultaneously, or is a private circuit providing communication with a place outside the British Islands, the Postmaster-General may fix the rate of rental in respect of that installation or that component part as the case may be.

Measurement of length of lines

11. For the purpose of the Third, Fourth and Fifth Schedules hereto, the chargeable length of any exchange line, extension, or private circuit, or of any part thereof, shall be the distance measured between such points and in such manner as the Postmaster-General may consider appropriate, and in particular (but without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing provision) the chargeable length of any extension or private circuit whereof the terminal points are more than twenty-five miles apart may be calculated by reference to the distance (measured as hereinbefore provided) between the telephone exchanges which in the opinion of the Postmaster-General are the appropriate telephone exchanges to serve the areas in which the premises connected by means of the extension or private circuit are respectively situated.

Variation of rental fixed by the Postmaster-General

12. The Postmaster-General may from time to time increase or reduce any rate of rental which was fixed by him under paragraph (8) of regulation ten by notice in writing to the subscriber, and such increase or reduction shall take effect on the date specified in the notice, being a date which in the case of an increase of a rate of rental shall be not less than two months after the date of service of the notice.

PART IV

Non-Periodic Charges

Application of Part IV

13. This part of these regulations applies in respect of telephone service provided by the Postmaster-General under these regulations or under an agreement:

Provided that where any provision in this part of these regulations is inconsistent with an agreement the agreement shall prevail.

Connection charge

14.—(1) The subscriber shall pay a connection charge in respect of the installing and connection for use of any equipment or apparatus provided as an installation or part thereof, being equipment or apparatus specified in the Sixth Schedule hereto.

(2) Where the equipment or apparatus so provided, or any installation previously provided of which such equipment or apparatus forms part, includes one or more exchange lines, the connection charge shall be such sum as the Postmaster-General shall fix not exceeding the aggregate of the sums specified in Part 1 of the Sixth Schedule hereto in respect of the equipment and apparatus installed and connected for use.

(3) Where the equipment or apparatus so provided forms part of a private circuit, the connection charge shall be such sum as the Postmaster-General shall fix not exceeding the aggregate of the sums specified in Part 2 of the Sixth Schedule hereto in respect of the equipment and apparatus installed and connected for use.

(4) Where telephone service has been suspended wholly or in part or an installation has been disconnected under the provisions of these regulations, and the telephone service is restored or the installation is re-connected, the subscriber shall pay a re-connection charge of ten shillings, and no connection charge shall be payable under the foregoing paragraphs of this regulation in respect of the re-connection if the installation re-connected consists of the same equipment and apparatus as before the suspension or disconnection occurred.

Transfer charge

15.—(1) Where the Postmaster-General provides for a subscriber an installation (other than a private circuit) which was previously provided for another subscriber, without the addition, substitution or removal of any equipment or apparatus, the subscriber shall pay a transfer charge in respect of the provision of the installation for him. The transfer charge shall cover the connection of the installation for use if it is not already so connected.

(2) The transfer charge shall be the sum of fifteen shillings for each exchange line which is included in the installation.

Wiring charge

16. The subscriber shall pay a wiring charge in respect of each of the items of equipment or apparatus specified in the first column of the Seventh Schedule hereto which is provided by the Postmaster-General and installed and connected for use, where internal wiring is provided of a length exceeding the length stated in the second column of the said Schedule, or where external wiring is provided. The charge shall be one pound ten shillings in respect of each fifty yards or residual part thereof by which the length of such internal wiring exceeds the length so stated, and one pound ten shillings in respect of each fifty yards or residual part thereof of such external wiring.

Excess multiple cabling charge

17.—(1) The subscriber shall pay an excess multiple cabling charge in respect of a house exchange system provided by the Postmaster-General and installed and connected for use, in the circumstances and of the amount referred to in the following paragraphs hereof.

(2) If the total length of internal multiple cabling (excluding, if a second main station is provided, that which connects the two main stations) exceeds twenty yards multiplied by the number of all the stations provided (including the main station or stations), the charge shall be such sum as the Postmaster-General shall fix, not exceeding two pounds for every ten yards or residual part thereof of the excess.

(3) If a second main station is provided, and the length of internal multiple cabling connecting the two main stations exceeds twenty yards, the charge shall be two pounds for each ten yards or residual part thereof by which the length exceeds twenty yards, in addition to any charge payable by virtue of paragraph (2).

Specially constructed lines

18.—(1) Where at the request of the subscriber any equipment or apparatus provided by the Postmaster-General includes internal or external wiring or cabling of a more expensive type, or of a greater length, or installed in a more expensive manner, than the Postmaster-General having regard to his normal methods of construction considers appropriate, or where at such request the installation or connection for use of any equipment or apparatus is effected wholly or partly outside the normal hours of working, the subscriber shall pay such sum as the Postmaster-General may fix, not exceeding the certified excess cost incurred by him in complying with such request.

(2) Where the Postmaster-General considers that any equipment or apparatus to be provided by him within the curtilage of the premises at which telephone service is or is to be provided will be subject to abnormal risks of damage or depreciation by reason of the presence within that curtilage of electric lines or plant or any inflammable, explosive, dangerous or deleterious substances or things, or by reason of the carrying on of any operations within that curtilage, and accordingly provides equipment or apparatus fitted with special protection against those risks, or of a more expensive type, or of a greater length, or installed in a more expensive manner, than would otherwise have been the case, the subscriber shall if the Postmaster-General so requires pay such sum as the Postmaster-General may fix, not exceeding the certified excess cost thereby incurred by him.

(3) Any sum payable under this regulation shall be payable in addition to any rental or other charge or sum payable under these regulations in respect of the equipment or apparatus.

Single payment charges

19. The subscriber shall pay in respect of the installation and connection for use of each of the items of equipment or apparatus specified in the Eighth Schedule hereto and provided by the Postmaster-General, in addition to any rental payable in respect thereof, a single payment of the amount specified in relation to that item in the said Schedule.

Removals and changes of apparatus

20.—(1) Subject to the following paragraphs of this regulation, the subscriber shall pay:—

(a) for the internal removal of any item of equipment or apparatus forming part of an installation which includes an exchange line, being an item specified in Part 1 of the Ninth Schedule hereto, such charge as the Postmaster-General shall fix not exceeding the sum specified in relation to that item in that Part of the said Schedule;

(b) for the internal or external removal of any item of equipment or apparatus forming part of a private circuit, being an item specified in Part 2 of the said Schedule, such charge as the Postmaster-General shall fix not exceeding the sum specified in relation to such removal of that item in that Part of the said Schedule;

(c) for the external removal of the terminal point of an external extension forming part of an installation which includes an exchange line (being the terminal point remote from the exchange line), and the external removal of any subsidiary extensions associated with that external extension and removed at the same time, provided that the other terminal point of the external extension is not removed, such charge as the Postmaster-General shall fix not exceeding the sums specified in Part 3 of the said Schedule;

(d) for any internal or external removal not specified in sub-paragraphs (a), (b) or (c) of this paragraph, such charge as the Postmaster-General may fix not exceeding the certified cost incurred by him in effecting the removal.

(2) Subject as aforesaid, where on the application of the subscriber the Postmaster-General effects a change of apparatus:—

(a) if any item of equipment or apparatus substituted for other equipment or apparatus is referred to in Part 4 of the Ninth Schedule hereto, the subscriber shall pay for the change of apparatus such charge as the Postmaster-General may fix, not exceeding the sum specified in relation to that item in that part of the said Schedule;

(b) if the subscriber applies for a private branch exchange or a switchboard to be provided in substitution for another private branch exchange or switchboard, the subscriber shall pay for the change of apparatus a charge equal to one half of the sum specified in the Sixth Schedule hereto in relation to the first-mentioned private branch exchange or switchboard;

(c) except in so far as sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) of this paragraph apply, the subscriber shall pay for any change of apparatus such charge as the Postmaster-General may fix, not exceeding the sum of fifteen shillings in respect of each item of equipment or apparatus substituted.

(3) (a) In any case in which the subscriber applies for any internal or external removal or change of apparatus, the Postmaster-General may if he thinks fit require that the removal or change of apparatus be effected under sub-paragraph (b) or sub-paragraph (c) of this paragraph, instead of under paragraph (1) or paragraph (2) of this regulation; and in that event no charge shall be payable under the said paragraph (1) or paragraph (2).

(b) Where the Postmaster-General requires that the removal or change of apparatus be effected under this sub-paragraph, the subscriber shall give notice to the Postmaster-General under regulation six requiring him to cease to provide telephone service by means of the whole of the installation concerned, and shall apply under regulation four for telephone service to be provided by means of a fresh installation or fresh installations.

(c) Where the Postmaster-General requires that the removal or change of apparatus be effected under this sub-paragraph, the subscriber shall give notice to the Postmaster-General under regulation six requiring him to cease to provide telephone service by means of the equipment or apparatus which the subscriber wishes to be removed from one position to another or to be substituted by other equipment or apparatus, and shall apply under regulation four for telephone service to be provided by means of equipment or apparatus in that other position, or by means of equipment or apparatus substituted for that which was comprised in the said notice, as the case may be.

(d) A notice given by the subscriber under sub-paragraph (b) or sub-paragraph (c) of this paragraph may be expressed to expire on that date on which telephone service shall first be provided by means of the fresh or altered installation as the case may be.

(4) In any case in which the Postmaster-General is of the opinion that the cost which he will incur in effecting any removal in respect of which a sum is specified in Parts 1, 2 or 3 of the Ninth Schedule hereto, or any change of apparatus, will be exceptionally large, he may give notice to the subscriber accordingly; and if the subscriber then confirms his application and the removal or change of apparatus is effected, the subscriber shall pay the certified cost so incurred by the Postmaster-General instead of a charge fixed under paragraph (1) of this regulation or a charge prescribed by or fixed under paragraph (2) of this regulation.

(5) Where any charges are payable in respect of an internal or external removal or a change of apparatus under paragraphs (1), (2) or (4) of this regulation, no connection charges shall be payable under regulation fourteen in respect of the removal or the change of apparatus.

(6) If the subscriber cancels an application for an internal or external removal or a change of apparatus before the removal or change has been fully effected and the equipment or apparatus connected for use, the subscriber shall pay the certified cost of the work which has been done and has been rendered abortive by reason of the cancellation, and, if the subscriber requests that the installation should be restored to the condition in which it was before that work was begun, and re-connected for use, the certified cost of such restoration and re-connection.

PART V

CALL CHARGES

Inland call charges

21.—(1) For the purpose of this regulation and the Tenth Schedule hereto the Postmaster-General shall classify telephone exchanges into groups (herein referred to as "telephone groups"), and shall determine in relation to each telephone group: (a) what other telephone groups are to be regarded as adjacent to it, and (b) the point (herein referred to as "the group centre") which is to be used for measuring distances for the purpose of this regulation.

(2) The charge for a call made to an installation or telephone which is served by:

(a) the local exchange, or

(b) a telephone exchange in the same telephone group as the local exchange, or

(c) a telephone exchange in a telephone group which is regarded as adjacent to that of the local exchange, shall be at the rate specified in item 1 of Part 1, item 1 of Part 2, or item 1 of Part 3 of the Tenth Schedule hereto, or (in case (c)) item 1 of Part 4 of the said Schedule, whichever Part is appropriate having regard to the headings of the said Parts.

(3) The charge for any other call to which this regulation applies shall be at the rate specified in item 2 of the appropriate Part of the Tenth Schedule hereto, being the rate which is appropriate having regard to the distance between the group centre of the telephone group which includes the local exchange and the group centre of the telephone group which includes the terminal exchange.

(4) The charges specified in Part 4 of the said Schedule do not include the charge which the person licensed to operate the local exchange may make in respect of the use of a call office or coin box line provided by that person.

(5) (a) Where owing to the distance of a call office from the telephone exchange by which it is served the Postmaster-General considers it inappropriate that the charges for calls made from or to the call office should be determined as hereinbefore provided, he may direct either that for the purposes of this regulation and the Tenth Schedule hereto some other telephone exchange shall be regarded as the telephone exchange serving the call office, or that for those purposes the call office shall itself be regarded as a telephone exchange serving the telephone therein; and in such cases the expressions "local exchange" and "terminal exchange" (as defined in paragraph (1) of regulation one) shall be construed accordingly.

(b) Where the Postmaster-General directs under the preceding subparagraph that a call office shall be regarded as a telephone exchange, he shall include it in a telephone group under paragraph (1).

(6) The Postmaster-General shall supply to every subscriber on demand a list of the telephone exchanges which are for the time being either in the same telephone group as the exchange by which the subscriber's installation is served or in the telephone groups which are regarded as adjacent to that group.

(7) The calls to which this regulation applies are all calls except those to which regulation twenty-two, paragraph (2) of regulation twenty-five, or regulation twenty-six applies.

Charges for foreign and other calls

22.—(1) The charges for calls (other than calls to which paragraph (2) of regulation twenty-five or regulation twenty-six applies) which involve the use of the public telephone system under the control of the Postmaster-General, and which:

(a) are made from a place within the British Islands to a place outside the British Islands, or to a ship, aircraft or vehicle, or to a portable installation or telephone served by a wireless circuit; or

(b) are made from a ship or aircraft registered in any part of the British Islands, or from a vehicle, or from a portable installation or telephone, and are transmitted by wireless telegraphy over the first part of their course to a station for wireless telegraphy established on land within the British Islands; shall be such as the Postmaster-General may fix.

(2) The Postmaster-General shall from time to time publish the charges so fixed in the London, Edinburgh and Belfast Gazettes or in such other manner as he may determine.

(3) In addition to the charge fixed under paragraph (1) of this regulation, there shall be charged and paid by the caller for every such call which is made from a call office of the Postmaster-General the sum of threepence, and there shall be charged and paid by the subscriber for every such call which is made from a coin box line provided by the Postmaster-General the sum of twopence, unless (in either case) an additional charge on account of the call's being so made is included in the charge for the call which is fixed under paragraph (1) of this regulation.

Calls from coin box lines

23. In the case of calls made from a coin box line provided by the Postmaster-General and services and facilities for which application is made by means of such a coin box line, there shall be placed in the coin collecting box on the said line in respect of every call, service or facility such sum as would be payable therefor if the same were made or applied for by a caller at a call office. The sums so collected in the coin collecting box shall be the property of the subscriber, who shall pay to the Postmaster-General for every such call, service or facility the amount of the prescribed charge therefor.

Reduction of charges at certain times

24. Any sums payable under these regulations in respect of calls of any description may be reduced at such times or during such periods as the Postmaster-General may from time to time direct.

Limit of user, and contract calls

25.—(1) Calls for a period exceeding three minutes may be allowed at the discretion of the Postmaster-General, but no person shall be entitled as of right to continue a call for a period exceeding three minutes.

(2) Nothing in these regulations shall preclude the Postmaster-General from providing under a contract a call at a fixed time at a rate differing from the charge fixed by or under these regulations or a series of such calls, or a call to which regulation twenty-six applies.

Calls made by means of special equipment

26. Where at the request of a person intending to make a call the Postmaster-General provides for the purpose special equipment or apparatus affording sound reproduction of higher quality than that afforded by the ordinary public telephone system, or provides means of simultaneous communication between three or more telephones, the charge for the call shall, subject to the terms of any contract for the provision of such equipment or apparatus or means of communication, be such as the Postmaster-General may fix.

PART VI

Services and Facilities

General

27.—(1) The services and facilities referred to in this part of these regulations (including the services and facilities referred to in paragraphs (3) and (4) of this regulation) may be provided by the Postmaster-General at such times, during such periods, in such circumstances, and by means of such telephone exchanges, call offices or installations or classes thereof as the Postmaster-General may from time to time consider expedient. The charges, terms and conditions determined by or under this part of these regulations shall apply to such services and facilities in so far as they are so provided.

(2) Regulations thirty, thirty-one and thirty-five shall not apply in relation to calls to which regulation twenty-two, paragraph (2) of regulation twenty-five or regulation twenty-six applies.

(3) The charges applicable to any services and facilities provided in relation to calls to which regulation twenty-two applies, and the charges for the attempt to connect such calls in cases where communication between the person calling and the person called is not established by reason of the refusal of either of those persons to accept the call, shall be such as the Postmaster-General may fix. The Postmaster-General shall from time to time publish the charges so fixed in the London, Edinburgh and Belfast Gazettes or in such other manner as he may determine.

(4) The charges applicable to any services and facilities provided in relation to calls to which paragraph (2) of regulation twenty-five or regulation twenty-six applies shall, subject to the terms of any such contract as is mentioned in those regulations, be such as the Postmaster-General may fix.

Temporary disconnections of telephone service

28.—(1) Telephone service provided by means of an installation may be temporarily disconnected at the request of the subscriber or a person using the installation. The subscriber shall pay for this service the charges specified in the Eleventh Schedule hereto.

(2) The rental in respect of the installation shall continue to be payable in respect of any period during which the telephone service is so disconnected.

(3) Telephone service which has been so disconnected may be re-connected without payment of a re-connection charge.

Temporary transfer and interception of calls

29.—(1) All incoming calls to an exchange line may on the request of the subscriber or a person using the exchange line be transferred, during such period as may be specified in the request, to another exchange line (whether or not provided for the subscriber) which is connected with the same telephone exchange, or be intercepted during such period at the telephone exchange and the caller informed of the telephone number of an exchange line (whether or not provided for the subscriber) at which the subscriber can be found or a message can be left for him. The subscriber in respect of the first mentioned exchange line shall pay for this service the charges specified in Part 1 of the Twelfth Schedule hereto.

(2) Where an exchange line has ceased to be provided, all incoming calls to the line may on the written request of the person for whom it was previously provided be intercepted at the telephone exchange and the caller given the information mentioned in paragraph (1) of this regulation. This service may be given during such period (not exceeding twelve months) as may be specified in the request, but not after the telephone number previously allocated to the line has been allocated to another exchange line. The person for whom the line was previously provided shall pay for this service the charges specified in Part 2 of the Twelfth Schedule hereto.

Inland fixed time calls

30.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this regulation, a subscriber or a person using an installation or a caller at a call office (in this regulation referred to as "the applicant") may book calls (including personal calls) in advance for connection at a specified time.

(2) A single fixed time call which is to be made from a call office or a coin box line shall be booked from that call office or that coin box line. Any other single fixed time call may be booked from any telephone or in writing. The Postmaster-General may refuse to accept a booking if in his opinion notice of insufficient length has been given.

(3) An applicant may by not less than two days' notice book in advance a series of fixed time calls to be made from an installation (other than a coin box line) specified by the applicant to a telephone number so specified at the same time of day on not fewer than five consecutive days commencing on

(4) A booking charge shall be paid in respect of an application for a single fixed time call or for a series of fixed time calls in addition to the charge for the calls. The booking charge shall be:—

(a) in the case of an application for a single fixed time call, fivepence or one quarter of the charge which would be payable for the call if the call were of not more than three minutes duration, whichever is the greater;

(b) in the case of application for a series of fixed time calls, the sum of fivepence multiplied by the number of calls in the series, or one eighth of the charge which would be payable for each call if the call were of not more than three minutes duration multiplied by the number of calls in the series, whichever is the greater.

(5) The booking charge for a single fixed time call which is to be made from an installation, or for a series of fixed time calls, shall be paid by the subscriber in respect of the installation from which the call or calls are to be made. The booking charge for a single fixed time call which is to be made from a call office shall be paid by the applicant at the time when the call is booked.

(6) Without prejudice to the generality of regulation fifty, the Postmaster-General may at his discretion remit the whole or part of the booking charge in respect of an application for a fixed time call (whether or not it is one of a series of fixed time calls), if the application for the call is cancelled by the applicant before the call is connected, or if the call is connected more than ten minutes after the specified time.

(7) The Postmaster-General may at his discretion and without charge allow the applicant to alter the time specified by him for connection of a fixed time call.

Inland personal calls

31.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this regulation, a person using an installation or a caller at a call office (in this regulation referred to as " the applicant ") may book a call to a specified telephone number for the specified purpose of communication with a particular person identified by name or by such description as the Postmaster-General may consider sufficient, or for connection to a particular department, correspondence reference, code number or extension number.

(2) The applicant when booking a personal call may specify:—

(a) one or more alternative telephone numbers after the first at which the person required may be found;

(b) one or more substitutes for the person required, who may be found at the first or any specified alternative telephone number or numbers; or

(c) two persons who may be found at the first or any specified alternative telephone number or numbers, with the requirement that unless both of them are available to speak the call is not to be connected.

(3) Subject to the following paragraphs of this regulation, a charge (in this regulation referred to as " the personal charge ") of one shilling and sixpence shall be paid in respect of the application for a personal call, whether or not the call is connected.

(4) The personal charge shall be payable in addition to any other charges payable under these regulations for or in respect of the call or the application therefor.

(5) The personal charge may be reduced to ninepence during such hours as the Postmaster-General may determine from time to time.

(6) No personal charge shall be payable if the telephone exchange operator is unable to establish communication with the specified telephone number, or (as the case may be) is able to establish communication with none of the specified telephone numbers.

(7) The personal charge (if any) in respect of the application for a personal call which is also a fixed time call shall be payable in the manner in which the booking charge is payable under paragraph (5) of regulation thirty.

Inland transferred charge calls

32.—(1) A person making a call to an installation may request the telephone exchange operator that the amount payable in respect of the call shall be charged to and payable by the person who is the subscriber in respect of the called installation, and if the person answering from the called installation consents to such request before the call is established, the amount payable in respect of the call and the transfer fee of threepence shall be charged and payable accordingly.

(2) A person making a call to a call office may request the telephone exchange operator that the amount payable in respect of the call shall be payable by the person answering from the call office, and if the person so answering consents to such request, the amount payable in respect of the call and the transfer fee of threepence shall be paid by that person in cash placed in the coin collecting box of the call office before the call is established.

(3) A person making a call from a coin box line or a call office to an installation may, before the termination of the call, request the telephone exchange operator that the duration of the call may be extended for a further period beyond the period in respect of which payment was made in cash, and that the amount payable in respect of such further period may be charged to and payable by the person who is the subscriber in respect of the called installation, or the person answering from the called installation may make the like request; and (provided in the former case that the person so answering consents to the request) the amount payable in respect of the extended period of the call and the transfer fee of threepence shall in either case be charged and payable accordingly.

(4) A person making a call from a coin box line or a call office to a call office may, before the termination of the call, request the telephone exchange operator that the duration of the call may be extended for a further period beyond the period in respect of which payment was made in cash, and that the amount payable in respect of such further period shall be payable by the person receiving the call, or the person receiving the call may make the like request; and (provided in the former case that the person receiving the call consents to the request) the amount payable in respect of the extended period of the call and the transfer fee of threepence shall in either case be paid by the person receiving the call in cash placed in the coin collecting box of the call office before the duration of the call is extended.

(5) Provided that where any call referred to in the foregoing paragraphs of this regulation is a personal call made from a coin box line or a call office, the personal charge payable in respect of the call shall be paid in advance in cash placed in the coin collecting box by the person making the call, and shall not be made payable by any other person by virtue of the foregoing paragraphs of this regulation.

(6) This regulation shall apply only to calls made from a place within the British Islands to another place within the British Islands; and for the purpose of the application of this regulation to calls involving the use of the public system under the control of the Postmaster-General, which are made in either direction between:—

(a) a telephone on that system, or a telephone on a public telephone system worked by an Authority under licence from the Postmaster-General, and references to the Postmaster-General in the definition of the expressions "coin box line" and "installation" in regulation one shall include references to such Authority, and the expression "subscriber" shall include a person for whom such Authority provides telephone service.

Oversea transferred charge calls

33.—(1) A person making a call from a place in the British Islands to a place outside the British Islands in respect of which the transferred charge service is available may request that the call charges should be reversed, and if the Telephone Authority providing service in the latter place obtains from the person answering on the called telephone his consent to such request before the call is established, no charge shall be payable under these regulations for the transferred charge facility or in respect of the call, except the sum of threepence payable by the caller where the call is made from a call office or a coin box line and the sum of twopence payable by the subscriber where the call is made from a coin box line, as provided by paragraph (3) of regulation twenty-two and regulation twenty-three.

(2) Where:

(a) such consent is given but the call is not established, or

(b) such consent is refused and the call is established, or

(c) such consent is refused and the call is not established, there shall be charged and paid under these regulations for the attempt to provide the transferred charge facility, (in addition, in case (b), to the charge payable under these regulations in respect of the call), such charge (if any) as the Postmaster-General may fix in relation to the place concerned and publish as provided in paragraph (3) of regulation twenty-seven.

(3) Where a person making a call to a place in the British Islands from a place outside the British Islands in respect of which the transferred charge service is available requests that the call charges should be reversed, and the person answering from the called telephone consents to such request before the call is established, then:

(a) if the call is established, there shall be charged and paid under these regulations such call charge and such supplemental charge (if any) as the Postmaster-General may fix in relation to the place outside the British Islands which is concerned and publish as provided in paragraph (3) of regulation twenty-seven;

(b) if the call is not established, there shall be charged and paid under these regulations such supplemental charge (if any) as is mentioned in sub-paragraph (a).

The charges mentioned in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) shall be payable by the like person and in like manner as if they were charges in respect of a call made from the called telephone.

(4) Where a person making a call to an installation in the British Islands from a ship registered in any part of the British Islands (being a ship in respect of which this service is available) requests that the call charge shall be reversed, then if the person answering from the called installation consents to such request before the call is established, and the call is established, the charge for the call which is fixed by the Postmaster-General under these regulations shall be paid by the person who is the subscriber in respect of the called installation.

Alarm calls

34.—(1) A person using an installation or a caller at a call office may apply for an alarm call to be made from a telephone exchange to an installation at a specified time of the day or night.

No further charge shall be payable in respect of the alarm call itself.

Advice of duration and charge

35.—(1) The Postmaster-General may supply particulars of the duration of or the charge for a call, or of both such duration and charge, on the request of the person who is the subscriber in respect of the installation from which the call was made or of any other person using such installation.

(2) There shall be charged and paid for this service the sum of threepence for each call of which particulars are supplied.

Additional particulars of calls charged individually

36.—(1) Where the Postmaster-General provides or has provided for a subscriber a statement of the charges for individual calls made from the subscriber's installation, he may on the request of the subscriber supply to him, either in the statement or subsequently, particulars of all or any of the following matters in relation to all or any of the calls :

Application of telegraph facilities

37.—(1) A person using an installation or a caller at a call office may give to the appropriate Post Office operator a telephonic message for further transmission to the addressee as a written telegram.

(2) This facility shall be subject to the provisions of these regulations and the statutory regulations for the time being in force relating to written telegrams, and shall be subject to the charges respectively payable thereunder for the telephone call involved and for the transmission and delivery of every message.

(c) permit or suffer any other person except an officer of the Post Office so to do.

(3) A subscriber shall not:

(a) attach any thing to an installation, or place any thing in electrical connection therewith; or

(b) place or use any thing in such a manner or position in relation to an installation that it transmits or enables to be transmitted any message or other communication to or from the installation; or unless it is provided by the Postmaster-General for that purpose, or unless it is, or is of a type which is, for the time being approved by the Postmaster-General for that purpose in accordance with the next following paragraph.

(4) The Postmaster-General may from time to time publish in such manner as he may think fit lists of the types of things which are for the time being approved by him for the purposes of paragraph (3), and may give to a subscriber in writing approval for those purposes of any thing which is not for the time being included in any such list.

(5) The subscriber shall, on being required by the Postmaster-General so to do, forthwith cease to use and remove anything which has been attached, connected, placed or used as mentioned in paragraph (3) whether by the subscriber or by another person and whether or not it is approved or is of a type which is approved as aforesaid, and anything which has been placed in such manner or position in relation to an installation that in the opinion of the Postmaster-General its use has had or may have a harmful effect on the installation or on the use of the installation for the purposes for which it was provided or on the quality of the telephone service.

Subscriber not to assign service or agreement

45.—(1) A subscriber shall not, except with the written consent of the Postmaster-General, assign, dispose of or part with telephone service provided under these regulations, or assign or dispose of his agreement, or assign, dispose of or part with any benefit or advantage under his agreement.

(2) A subscriber who fails to comply with this regulation shall (without prejudice to any other right or remedy of the Postmaster-General) continue to be liable for all rental, charges and sums due and to become due in respect of the installation, and in respect of calls made therefrom and services and facilities rendered at the request or with the authority of persons using the installation.

Supply of electricity

46.—(1) If and when required so to do by the Postmaster-General, a subscriber shall provide at his own expense in all respects a continuous supply (at a pressure not exceeding two hundred and fifty volts subject to any percentage variation allowed by the Electricity Supply Regulations, 1937, or any regulations amending or superseding the same) of the electricity required by the Postmaster-General for the installing, operation and maintenance of the installation or any part thereof. Such electricity shall be supplied at such point or points and by means of such wires fitted with such sockets or other means of connection and provided with such connection to earth and with such fusible cut-outs and other protective devices as the Postmaster-General may from time to time require.

(2) The subscriber shall pay the certified cost incurred by the Postmaster-General from time to time of making such alterations to the installation as the Postmaster-General considers necessary to conform to any change made otherwise than by the Postmaster-General in the method of supplying the electricity to the installation or in the kind of electric current used, or to prevent injurious affection to the installation by electric lines or plant erected on the subscriber's premises.

Telephone directories

47.—(1) Subject to the provisions of this regulation, the Postmaster-General may make an entry in respect of every exchange line in such of the telephone directories from time to time published by him or on his behalf as he considers appropriate, and every such entry may be made in such terms, form, manner and order as the Postmaster-General thinks fit.

(2) A subscriber may apply to the Postmaster-General in writing for a special entry in respect of a specified exchange line provided for him to be made in a telephone directory in terms or in a form mentioned in the Fourteenth Schedule hereto; and if the Postmaster-General accedes to the application the following provisions of this regulation shall apply.

(3) The subscriber shall pay for the facilities referred to in paragraph (2) a periodic charge at the annual rate, or, as the case may be, the total of the annual rates, specified in the Fourteenth Schedule hereto in relation to the facility and the telephone directory concerned.

(4) The period in respect of which the said charge shall be payable shall begin on the first day of the month in which is published the first issue of the telephone directory in which effect is given to the application, and shall end as provided in the next following paragraph.

(5) The subscriber may at any time by notice in writing to the Postmaster-General withdraw an application made under paragraph (2), and the said period shall end on the first day of the month in which is published the next subsequent issue of the telephone directory concerned, whether effect is given to the notice of withdrawal in that issue or not; and if no such notice is given, the said period shall end on the date when the subscriber's liability to pay rental in respect of the exchange line concerned ceases.

(6) The said charge shall be payable at such intervals (not being longer than a year) and on such dates (whether in advance or in arrear, or partly in advance and partly in arrear) as the Postmaster-General may from time to time decide either in relation to a particular entry or exchange line or generally; and on the termination of the period referred to in paragraph (4) the Postmaster-General shall repay to the subscriber or allow him in account the appropriate proportion of any instalment paid in advance in respect of a period ending after such termination.

(7) (a) In this regulation and in the Fourteenth Schedule hereto:—

"telephone directory" does not include any directory in which the entries are classified according to the trades or professions of the subscribers;

"main telephone directory" means the London Postal Area Telephone Directory published in numbered parts and the Outer London and Provincial Telephone Directory published in numbered sections;

"local telephone directory" means a directory containing entries relating to a particular geographical area, not being a part or section of the main telephone directory;

"extra entry" means an entry additional to a main entry, and relating to the exchange line or lines to which that main entry relates;

"extra word" means any word which the Postmaster-General permits to be included in an entry on condition that the extra charge specified in the Fourteenth Schedule hereto is payable therefor.

(b) References in this regulation to an issue of a directory, being a directory which is published in parts or sections, shall be construed as references to the issue of the part or section which is or would be appropriate to the particular entry or exchange line.

(c) Where an issue of a directory is dated by a reference to a month and year appearing thereon, that issue shall be deemed to have been published on the first day of the month referred to.

PART VIII

Liability for call office and other charges

48. Except as otherwise provided in these regulations, all charges in respect of calls made from a call office and in respect of services and facilities rendered at the request of a person using a call office shall be pre-paid by that person; and all such charges which are not pre-paid and all other charges and sums payable under these regulations shall be payable to the Postmaster-General on demand.

Evidence

49.—(1) In any proceedings by or against the Crown in relation to any rental, charge or sum payable under these regulations or under an agreement:—

(a) where the person alleged by the Crown to be liable for payment of that rental, charge or sum has not disputed in writing his liability therefor within thirty days of the service on him of an account including that rental, charge or sum, the production of a certified account of that rental, charge or sum shall be conclusive evidence of the amount thereof and of the liability of that person for payment thereof;

(b) in any other case, the production of a certified account thereof shall be sufficient evidence unless the contrary is proved that the rental, charge or sum is payable in respect of the installation referred to in the account, and that the amount thereof is as stated in the account; and the production of a Post Office telephone exchange ticket recording a call made or a service or facility afforded shall unless the contrary is proved be sufficient evidence of the facts recorded thereon.

(2) A certified statement (whether or not included in a certified account):—

(d) of any distance for the purpose of regulation eleven or paragraph (3) of regulation twenty-one or shall for all purposes (including the purposes of any proceedings by or against the Crown) be sufficient evidence, unless the contrary is proved, of the facts therein stated.

(e) that a ticket produced is a Post Office telephone exchange ticket,

(3) A copy of the London, Edinburgh or Belfast Gazette containing any notice published therein by the Postmaster-General in accordance with regulation twenty-two or regulation twenty-seven shall be conclusive evidence of the facts stated in the notice.

Remission of charges

Service of notices, etc.

51. Any notice, account, statement, direction or other document which may be given, rendered or made by the Postmaster-General under or for any purpose of these regulations or an agreement shall be deemed to have been duly given, rendered or made and served if left at or sent by registered post to the address at or in connection with which the relevant telephone service is required or provided, or to the address stated in the relative application form or agreement as the subscriber's address, or to the subscriber's usual or last known place of abode or business in the British Islands.

Indecent or offensive messages not to be transmitted

52.—(1) A person shall not use the public telephone system under the control of the Postmaster-General:—

(a) for sending any message or communication which is offensive or abusive or of an indecent, obscene or menacing character to an officer of the Post Office or to any other person, or

(b) for the persistent making of telephone calls without reasonable cause or for the making of telephone calls for the purpose of causing annoyance, inconvenience, or needless anxiety to an officer of the Post Office or any other person.

(2) The Postmaster-General may interrupt and terminate any telephonic message or communication of, and may refuse to give the means of telephonic communication to, any person who contravenes this regulation, and shall not in any such case be bound to return any sums paid in respect of the message or communication, and may suspend without notice the telephone service of any subscriber whose installation is used as aforesaid, either at the time the installation is so used or at any time thereafter, and may continue such suspension unless and until such assurance is received as the Postmaster-General may deem sufficient that there will be no further contravention of the provisions of paragraph (1) of this regulation:

Provided that no action taken under this regulation shall prejudice any other right or remedy of the Postmaster-General.

Non-liability of Post Office

53.—(1) Neither the Crown nor the Postmaster-General nor any other officer of the Post Office shall incur any liability for or on account of or in respect of any loss or damage sustained by reason of any interruption or failure of communication by means of any installation, or any failure or error in connection with the taking or giving of messages by officers of the Post Office, or any omission or insertion of or error in any entry in a telephone directory published by or on behalf of the Postmaster-General.

(2) A subscriber shall not be entitled to any abatement of rental in connection with any of the matters aforesaid.

Consent or approval of the Postmaster-General

54. Any consent or approval of the Postmaster-General referred to in these regulations shall be revocable and may be given subject to such terms and conditions as the Postmaster-General may think fit.

Construction

55. Without prejudice to paragraph (2) of regulation twenty-five, nothing contained in or done under Part II of these regulations, or done under or pursuant to any term or condition contained in or determined under these regulations, and no request for a call, service or facility for which the charge, terms or conditions are fixed or determined by or under these regulations, shall constitute or lead to the formation of a contract between the Postmaster-General and any other person; and nothing contained in or done under Part II of these regulations or regulation twenty shall be construed as implying that the Postmaster-General is under any obligation to provide equipment or apparatus for the purpose of affording means of telephonic communication, or to effect an internal or external removal or a change of apparatus.

FIRST SCHEDULE

Regulation 5

Terms and conditions applicable to particular installations

PART 1

Regulation 5 (1) (a).

1. The telephone equipment and apparatus provided otherwise than by the Postmaster-General (in this Part of this Schedule referred to as "the private equipment") shall not be connected directly or indirectly with an exchange line unless the Postmaster-General notifies the subscriber in writing that in his opinion it is capable of working efficiently in connection therewith and the standard of transmission afforded by it is acceptable to him.

2. The private equipment (including any extension circuits) shall be so arranged that efficient calling and clearing signals shall under all circumstances be automatically given to the telephone exchange serving the installation. Circuit diagrams of the private equipment shall be furnished to the Postmaster-General for written approval before the private equipment is connected as aforesaid with an exchange line and after such connection no alteration to any of the electrical circuits or to any other part of the private equipment shall be made without the written approval of the Postmaster-General.

3. As a means of connecting the installation with the private equipment, the subscriber shall supply and maintain connection blocks of such description and in such positions as shall be approved in writing by the Postmaster-General. The subscriber shall provide facilities for testing and shall not notify the Postmaster-General of a fault unless tests have indicated that it did not originate from the private equipment. The subscriber shall pay the certified cost incurred by the Postmaster-General as a result of any notification of a fault if it is found that the fault originated from the private equipment.

4. The Postmaster-General may at any time inspect and test the private equipment for all purposes relating to the Post Office telephone system, and especially in regard to:—

(a) efficient speaking;

(b) efficient signalling; and

(c) satisfactory mechanical construction and condition.

5. The Postmaster-General may at any time require the subscriber to have effected at the subscriber's expense any alterations or additions to the private equipment which in the opinion of the Postmaster-General are rendered necessary by any change or development of the Post Office telephone system.

6. The private equipment shall be maintained by the subscriber in an efficient working condition and shall be operated by the subscriber efficiently. The Postmaster-General's decision as to whether this condition has been complied with shall be final and conclusive.

7. Except with the consent in writing of the Postmaster-General there shall not be used in connection with the installation:—

(a) an extension from any switchboard forming part of the private equipment to a point beyond a radius of five miles from the telephone exchange serving the installation;

(b) an extension from that switchboard for the use of any person other than the subscriber; or

(c) a telephone which is available to the public for the purpose of sending and receiving telephonic messages.

PART 2

Regulation 5 (1) (b).

An extension between switchboards shall not be used for originating a call to a telephone exchange. It shall be used only for:—

(1) calls between the two switchboards which it connects;

(2) calls between any circuit (other than an exchange line) connected with one of the switchboards and any such circuit connected with the other switchboard;

(3) calls between either of the said switchboards and any circuit (other than an exchange line) connected with the other switchboard; and

(4) calls received at one of the said switchboards over an exchange line and extended to the other switchboard or by way thereof to an extension connected therewith: Provided that the use of the said extension for this purpose may be prohibited by the Postmaster-General at any time by notice in writing to that effect.

Regulation 5 (1) (c). PART 3

Neither the subscriber nor any other person shall receive any consideration either directly or indirectly in return for or otherwise howsoever on account of the use of the external extension by or on behalf of any person other than the subscriber or the person in the occupation of the premises connected by means of the external extension with the premises occupied by the subscriber. The term "consideration" includes besides money or money's worth the giving or withholding of business or any other advantage or benefit of any kind or description.

Regulation 5 (1) (d). PART 4

1. Except as otherwise provided by any licence granted by the Postmaster-General to the subscriber under the Telegraph Acts, 1863 to 1954, or with the consent in writing of the Postmaster-General, neither the subscriber nor any other person shall receive any consideration either directly or indirectly in return for or otherwise howsoever on account of the use of the private circuit by or on behalf of any person other than the subscriber or any of the respective persons whose premises are for the time being connected by means of the private circuit with the premises occupied by the subscriber. The term "consideration" includes besides money or money's worth the giving or withholding of business or any other advantage or benefit of any kind or description.

2. Except with the consent in writing of the Postmaster-General, the total electrical power applied to the private circuit by the subscriber shall not at any instant exceed five milliwatts where alternating current is used. In the case of direct current working the voltage applied to the private circuit shall not exceed fifty volts and the current in the line shall not exceed sixty milliamperes. Where interrupted direct current working is adopted the subscriber shall insert suitable spark gap quenches and low pass filters to prevent any noise induction into other circuits.

3. Except with the consent in writing of the Postmaster-General, the subscriber shall not directly or indirectly connect any exchange line with the private circuit or permit or suffer any exchange line to be so connected.

4. If the subscriber with the consent of the Postmaster-General connects with the private circuit any equipment or apparatus provided otherwise than by the Postmaster-General, the subscriber shall if required supply and maintain connection blocks of such description and in such positions as shall be approved by the Postmaster-General. The subscriber shall supply facilities for testing and shall not notify the Postmaster-General of a fault unless tests have indicated that it did not originate from the said equipment or apparatus. The subscriber shall pay the certified cost incurred by the Postmaster-General as a result of any notification of a fault if it is found that the fault originated from the said equipment or apparatus.

Regulation 5. SECOND SCHEDULE

Terms and conditions which may be applied to particular installations

Regulation 5 (2). PART 1

Without prejudice to any agreement between the subscriber and the other person or persons using part of the installation in common with him, the subscriber shall pay to the Postmaster-General the charges for all calls which are recorded by a meter provided by the Postmaster-General, and which are made by means of the installation or any part thereof, whether such calls are made from a telephone provided for the subscriber or from a telephone provided for that other person or those other persons; and in relation to such calls made from a telephone provided for that other person or those other persons, the provisions of the Telephone Regulations from time to time in force relating to payment of charges shall apply as if those calls had been made from an installation provided for the subscriber.

PART 2 Regulation 5 (3) (a).

1. The subscriber shall not permit the provision by any officer of the Post Office of any equipment or apparatus at any point where under ordinary circumstances an explosion could be caused by heat, a naked light, a flame or sparks.

2. If owing to exceptional circumstances an explosive mixture should accumulate at any part of the subscriber's premises the subscriber shall not permit any such officer to begin or continue work of any kind whatsoever on or in the vicinity of such part of the subscriber's premises until the explosive mixture has been dispersed, whether or not an explosion could be caused by such work.

3. Subject to condition 5, the subscriber shall indemnify the Crown against all actions, proceedings and claims by whomsoever brought or made in respect of any loss, damage or injury attributable directly or indirectly to any explosion or fire on the subscriber's premises.

4. Subject to condition 5, the subscriber shall not be entitled to recover from the Crown in respect of any loss, damage or injury sustained or suffered by the subscriber through, as a result of, or consequential upon any explosion or fire attributable directly or indirectly to anything done or omitted by any such officer or to any property of the Postmaster-General on the subscriber's premises.

5. If the subscriber shall have observed conditions 1 and 2, conditions 3 and 4 shall not apply in relation to any explosion or fire proved by the subscriber to have been caused by the omission of any such officer to observe instructions given by the subscriber under conditions 1 or 2.
