Charges for temporary disconnection of telex service.

SCHEDULE 3

Regulations revoked.

I, The Right Honourable Anthony Neil Wedgwood Benn, M.P., Her Majesty's Postmaster General, by virtue of the power vested in me by section 1 of the Telegraph Act 1962(a) and of every other power enabling me in this behalf, do hereby make the following regulations:

Interpretation

1.—(1) In these regulations, except so far as the contrary is provided or the context otherwise requires, the following expressions have the meanings hereby respectively assigned to them:—

" agreement " means an agreement made by the Postmaster General with any person for or relating to the provision of telex service;

" the British Islands " means the United Kingdom, the Channel Islands, and the Isle of Man;

" call " means the establishment of means of communication for the purpose of telex service;

" call office " means a teleprinter or other sending and receiving apparatus (not being part of an installation) which is made available by the Postmaster General to the public for the purpose of telex service;

" certified " means certified by the Postmaster General;

" inland call " means a call made from a sending station within the British Islands to a receiving station within the British Islands;

" installation " means a telex line and the teleprinter or other sending and receiving apparatus and the equipment associated therewith which are provided by the Postmaster General for a subscriber for the purpose of telex service;

" message " includes any form of information or signals;

" receiving station ", in relation to a call, means the teleprinter or other receiving apparatus and the equipment associated therewith to which the call is made;

" rental " means any charge in respect of an installation which is fixed by an agreement and is payable periodically;

" sending station ", in relation to a call, means the teleprinter or other sending apparatus and the equipment associated therewith whereby the call is originated;

"subscriber " means a person with whom the Postmaster General makes an agreement for the provision of telex service, and includes the personal representatives of a deceased subscriber;

" subscriber's premises " means any premises in or on which any part of an installation is situated, being premises in the possession or occupation or under the control of the person who is the subscriber in respect of the installation or of a person for whose use the installation is provided under the agreement with the subscriber;

(a) 10 & 11 Eliz. 2. c. 14.

" telegraphic line " means a telegraphic line as defined in the Telegraph Act 1878(a) and in addition a telegraph as defined in the Telegraph Act 1869(b);

" telex area ", in relation to a sending station or a receiving station, means such area as the Postmaster General may determine, being an area within which that station is situate;

" telex centre ", in relation to a sending station or a receiving station, means such point within the telex area of that station as the Postmaster General may determine for the purpose of the provisions of these regulations as to call charges;

" telex exchange " means switching equipment and apparatus operated by the Postmaster General and forming part of the public telex exchange system provided by him;

" telex line " means a circuit provided as part of an installation for the purpose of connecting that installation with a telex exchange:

" telex service " means a service whereby messages (other than spoken messages) may be sent directly between the sender and the recipient through the public telex exchange system under the control of the Postmaster General.

(2) The Interpretation Act 1889(c) applies for the interpretation of these regulations as it applies for the interpretation of an Act of Parliament, and as if these regulations and the regulations hereby revoked were Acts of Parliament.

Call charges

2.—(1) Subject to the provisions of these regulations, the charges for inland calls shall be as follows:

(a) where the call is obtained without the assistance of a telex exchange operator, the charge shall be at the rate specified in Table A in Schedule 1 which is appropriate having regard to the description and duration of the call;

(b) otherwise, the charge shall be at the rate specified in Table B in the said Schedule which is appropriate having regard to the description and duration of the call.

(2) Subject as aforesaid, the charges for calls other than inland calls shall be such as the Postmaster General may fix.

(3) Any charges for calls of any description may be reduced at such times or during such periods as the Postmaster General may from time to time direct.

(4) The duration of a call for the purpose of these regulations shall be calculated from the time when the establishment of means of communication begins to the time when it ends, without regard to the length of the time during which messages are being sent.

(5) Calls for a period exceeding three minutes may be allowed at the discretion of the Postmaster General, but no person shall be entitled as of right to continue a call for a period exceeding three minutes.

(a) 41 & 42 Vict. c. 76.
(b) 32 & 33 Vict. c. 73.
(c) 52 & 53 Vict. c. 63.

Call offices

3.—(1) In addition to the charge provided for by regulation 2 there shall be charged:

(a) for every call which is made from a call office, such additional sum as the Postmaster General may fix, and

(b) where the call is made with the assistance of a person provided by the Postmaster General to operate the teleprinter or other sending apparatus, such further sum as the Postmaster General may fix.

(2) All charges in respect of calls made from a call office and in respect of services rendered at the request of a caller from a call office shall if the Postmaster General so requires be prepaid by the caller, and otherwise shall be payable by the caller to the Postmaster General on demand.

General provision as to services

4. The services referred to in regulations 5 to 9 inclusive may be provided by the Postmaster General at such times, during such periods, in such circumstances, and by means of such equipment as the Postmaster General may from time to time consider expedient. The charges, terms and conditions determined by or under the said regulations shall apply to such services in so far as they are so provided.

Messages for further transmission by the public telegraph system

5.—(1) A telex message may be sent from a sending station within the British Islands to the appropriate receiving station under the control of the Postmaster General or of a licensee of the Postmaster General for further transmission to the addressee as a written telegram by means of the public telegraph system.

(2) There shall be paid for this service :

(a) the charge payable under these regulations for the call to the receiving station referred to in paragraph (1) if that station is under the control of a licensee of the Postmaster General (but not otherwise), and

(b) all charges in respect of the telegram which are payable under the statutory regulations applicable thereto.

(3) This facility shall be subject to the provisions of these regulations and the statutory regulations for the time being in force relating to written telegrams.

Messages for further transmission by telex

6.—(1) A telex message may be sent from a sending station within the British Islands to the appropriate receiving and sending station under the control of the Postmaster General for further transmission as a telex message to not less than four other receiving stations within the British Islands.

(2) There shall be paid for this service:

(a) the charges which would have been payable under these regulations for the calls to the other receiving stations if the calls had been made directly thereto from the first mentioned sending station with the assistance of a telex exchange operator, and

(b) the sum of 1s. 9d. multiplied by the number of the other receiving stations;

but no charge shall be payable for the call to the receiving and sending station under the control of the Postmaster General.

Advice of duration and charge

7.—(1) The Postmaster General may supply particulars of the duration of or the charge for a call which cannot be obtained otherwise than with the assistance of a telex exchange operator, or of both such duration and charge, on the request of the person who is the subscriber in respect of the sending station or of any other person using that station.

(2) The subscriber shall pay for this service such charge as the Postmaster General may fix, not exceeding 3d. for each call of which particulars are supplied, and different charges may be fixed according to the class of call concerned and the circumstances in which the particulars are supplied.

Temporary disconnection of telex service

8.—(1) Telex service provided by means of an installation may be temporarily disconnected at the request of the subscriber or a person using the installation. The subscriber shall pay for this service the charges specified in Schedule 2.

(2) The rental in respect of the installation shall continue to be payable in respect of any period during which the telex service is so disconnected.

Charges for services relating to foreign calls

9. The charges applicable to any services provided in relation to calls other than inland calls shall be such as the Postmaster General may fix.

Publication of charges

10. The Postmaster General shall from time to time publish the charges fixed by him under these regulations in the London, Edinburgh and Belfast Gazettes or in such other manner as he may determine.

General powers of the Postmaster General

11. Without prejudice to any other power or right of the Postmaster General he may at his discretion:—

(a) refuse, or cease, in consequence of any difficulty in obtaining or maintaining on terms acceptable to the Postmaster General any wayleave for an appropriate telegraphic line, to provide under an agreement any telex service which would involve or involves the use of that telegraphic line;

(b) disconnect an installation from one telex exchange and connect it with any other telex exchange;

(c) make any alteration in an installation;

(d) alter the telex number or the answer-back code allocated by the Postmaster General to an installation;

(e) use any part or parts of an installation for any purpose (including the provision of services to other persons) involving the carrying of electric currents over such part or parts of the installation at frequencies different from those used for the purpose of the subscriber's telex service.

Power to require security

12. The Postmaster General may, from time to time, before or after making an agreement, require the payment of a deposit of such amount as he thinks necessary by way of security for the payment of the rental or other charges payable or to become payable by the subscriber, and the subscriber shall pay such deposit within such time as the Postmaster General may direct. The Postmaster General may retain such deposit so long as the telex line continues to be provided for the subscriber.

Charges payable by subscribers

13.—(1) All charges in respect of calls made from a subscriber's installation, and in respect of services rendered at the request or with the authority of persons using the installation, and all other charges and sums payable by a subscriber under these regulations or under an agreement, shall be payable by the subscriber on demand.

(2) The charges for calls, or for calls of any class or of any combination of classes, may be aggregated and included as a single item in any account rendered to a subscriber.

(3) Any rental payable under an agreement in respect of an installation or of a component part thereof shall commence on the date when the installation or the component part is connected for use.

(4) Any rental payable under an agreement shall be payable at such intervals and on such dates (whether in advance or in arrear or partly in advance and partly in arrear) as the Postmaster General may from time to time decide either in relation to the installation for which the rental is payable or generally.

Default by subscribers

14.—(1) If a subscriber:—

(i) fails to pay when due any rental charge or sum (including any sum required by way of deposit) payable by him under these regulations or under an agreement, or under the statutory telephone regulations for the time being in force or under an agreement made by the Postmaster General with the subscriber for the provision of telephone service; or

(ii) has a receiving order made against him or in Scotland is sequestrated, or becomes insolvent or makes any composition or arrangement with or assignment for the benefit of his creditors, or, being a company, goes into liquidation, whether voluntary or compulsory, or has a receiver of any assets appointed; or

(iii) fails to observe or perform any of the provisions of these regulations or of an agreement, or any obligation on his part arising thereunder, the Postmaster General may (without prejudice to any other right or remedy of the Postmaster General):

(a) without notice, wholly or in part suspend telex service provided by means of all or any of the subscriber's installations and if he shall think fit so to do disconnect all or any of such installations from the telex exchange; and, in addition or alternatively,

(b) summarily determine the subscriber's agreements or any of them by notice in writing to that effect.

(2) On the determination of any agreement under the provisions of this regulation, the subscriber shall pay, in addition to any other sums payable under such agreement up to the date of its determination, a sum equal to one month's rental or to the rental for the period from the date of determination to the end of the initial term of the agreement at the rates in force at the date of determination, whichever is the greater, credit being allowed to the subscriber for the appropriate proportion of any rental paid in advance in respect of a period ending after that date.

Subscriber's responsibility for installation

15.—(1) A subscriber shall be responsible for the safety of all such parts of the installation as are in or on the subscriber's premises, fair wear and tear only excepted.

(2) The subscriber shall pay in respect of the replacement of any such parts of the installation as aforesaid which at any time are lost, stolen or destroyed, and the replacement or repair of any such parts which are damaged otherwise than by way of fair wear and tear, the certified cost incurred by the Postmaster General in replacing or repairing those parts.

(3) The Postmaster General may remove the installation within such time as he thinks fit after the determination of the relative agreement by any means, and the subscriber's obligations under paragraphs (1) and (2) shall continue until the installation has either been so removed or been provided for another subscriber at the same premises.

Permission to enter property

16.—(1) Every subscriber shall permit officers of the Post Office (or, when required by the Postmaster General so to do, procure permission for them from any other person whose permission is requisite) to enter at all reasonable times upon the subscriber's premises for the purpose of constructing, inspecting, maintaining, altering, or removing the installation or any part thereof and to have access at all reasonable times to all such parts of the installation as may be in or on the subscriber's premises.

(2) Every officer of the Post Office who desires to enter upon the subscriber's premises as aforesaid shall produce, if required so to do, some duly authenticated document showing his identity and authority.

Attachments, etc.

17.—(1) A subscriber shall not, without the written consent of the Postmaster General:

(a) alter or remove an installation or any part thereof, or obliterate or deface any marks thereon;

(b) place or use in any manner or position in relation to an installation any thing that may have a harmful effect on the installation or on the use of the installation for the purposes for which it was provided or on the quality of the telex service; or

(c) permit or suffer any other person except an officer of the Post Office so to do.

(2) A subscriber shall not:

(a) attach any thing to an installation, or place any thing in electrical connection therewith; or

(b) place or use any thing in such a manner or position in relation to an installation that it transmits or enables to be transmitted any message to or from the installation; or unless it is provided by the Postmaster General for that purpose, or unless it is, or is of a type which is, for the time being approved by the Postmaster General for that purpose in accordance with the next following paragraph.

(c) permit or suffer any other person except an officer of the Post Office so to do,

(3) The Postmaster General may from time to time publish in such manner as he may think fit lists of the types of things which are for the time being approved by him for the purposes of paragraph (2), and may give to a subscriber in writing approval for those purposes of any thing which is not for the time being included in any such list.

(4) The subscriber shall, on being required by the Postmaster General so to do, forthwith cease to use and remove any thing which has been attached, connected, placed or used as mentioned in paragraph (2) whether by the subscriber or by another person and whether or not it is approved or is of a type which is approved as aforesaid, and any thing which has been placed in such manner or position in relation to an installation that in the opinion of the Postmaster General its use has had or may have a harmful effect on the installation or on the use of the installation for the purposes for which it was provided or on the quality of the telex service.

Paper and typewriter ribbons

18.—(1) The paper and typewriter ribbons used in any teleprinter comprised in an installation shall be of a quality, kind and size for the time being approved by the Postmaster General.

(2) Except during such periods as the Postmaster General may otherwise permit a subscriber shall at all times keep properly adjusted in any teleprinter comprised in an installation an adequate supply of paper and a typewriter ribbon in good condition.

Subscriber not to assign agreement

19.—(1) A subscriber shall not, except with the written consent of the Postmaster General, assign or dispose of his agreement, or assign, dispose of or part with any benefit or advantage under it.

(2) Except as otherwise provided by any licence granted by the Postmaster General to the subscriber under the Telegraph Acts 1863 to 1962 or with the consent in writing of the Postmaster General, neither the subscriber nor any other person shall receive any consideration either directly or indirectly in return for or otherwise howsoever on account of the use of the subscriber's installation by or on behalf of any person other than the subscriber. The term "consideration" includes besides money or money's worth the giving or withholding of business or any other advantage or benefit of any kind or description.

(3) A subscriber who fails to comply with this regulation shall (without prejudice to any other right or remedy of the Postmaster General) continue to be liable for all rental, charges and sums due and to become due in respect of the installation, and in respect of calls made therefrom and services rendered at the request or with the authority of persons using the installation.

Supply of electricity

20.—(1) If and when required so to do by the Postmaster General, a subscriber shall provide at his own expense in all respects a continuous supply (at a pressure not exceeding two hundred and fifty volts subject to any percentage variation allowed by the Electricity Supply Regulations 1937, or any regulations amending or superseding the same) of the electricity required by the Postmaster General for the installing, operation and maintenance of the installation or any part thereof. Such electricity shall be supplied at such point or points and by means of such wires fitted with such sockets or other means of connection and provided with such connection to earth and with such fusible cut-outs and other protective devices as the Postmaster General may from time to time require.

(2) The subscriber shall pay the certified cost incurred by the Postmaster General of making such alterations to the installation as he considers necessary to conform to any change made otherwise than by the Postmaster General in the method of applying the electricity to the installation or in the kind of electric current used, or to prevent injurious affection to the installation by electric lines or plant erected on the subscriber's premises.

(3) The subscriber shall leave the electricity supply provided under paragraph (1) continuously connected to the installation except during such periods as the Postmaster General may otherwise permit.

Telex directories

21.—(1) Entries in any telex directory published by or on behalf of the Postmaster General may be made in such terms, form, manner and order as the Postmaster General thinks fit.

(2) (a) A subscriber may apply to the Postmaster General in writing for one or more extra entries to be made in any such directory, and if the Postmaster General accedes to the application, the subscriber shall pay for each extra entry a periodic charge at the following rate:

(i) except where sub-paragraph (ii) applies, the annual rate of 10s.;

(ii) where the extra entry is in the name of a person who is permitted to use the subscriber's installation by virtue of such licence or consent as is mentioned in regulation 19(2), the annual rate of £5.

(b) A subscriber may apply to the Postmaster General in writing for one or more extra words to be inserted in an entry, and if the Postmaster General accedes to the application, the subscriber shall pay for each extra word inserted in a main entry and each extra word inserted in an extra entry a periodic charge at the annual rate of 6s.

(3) The period in respect of which the said charges shall be payable shall begin on the first day of the month in which the first issue of the directory containing the entry is published, and shall end as follows:—

(a) if the subscriber gives to the Postmaster General not less than one month's notice in writing requesting him to cease to make the entry or insertion (as the case may be) in future issues of the directory, the said period shall end on the day before that anniversary of its beginning which follows next after the expiration of the notice;

(b) in any other case, the said period shall end on the day before that anniversary of its beginning which follows next after the date on which the subscriber ceases to be the subscriber in respect of the installation to which the entry relates.

(4) The said charges shall be payable by instalments in advance at such intervals (not being longer than a year) as the Postmaster General may from time to time decide either in relation to a particular entry or insertion or generally.

(5) In this regulation:—

"main entry" means a single entry relating to the installation provided for a subscriber at one address;

"extra entry" means an entry additional to a main entry and relating to the installation to which that main entry relates;

"extra word" means any word which the Postmaster General permits to be included in an entry on condition that the extra charge specified in paragraph (2)(b) is payable therefor.

Evidence

22.—(1) In any proceedings by or against the Crown in relation to any rental, charge or sum payable under these regulations or under an agreement:—

(a) where the person alleged by the Crown to be liable for payment of that rental, charge or sum has not disputed in writing his liability therefor within thirty days of the service on him of an account including that rental, charge or sum, the production of a certified account of that rental, charge or sum shall be conclusive evidence of the amount thereof and of the liability of the person for payment thereof;

(b) in any other case, the production of a certified account thereof shall be sufficient evidence unless the contrary is proved that the rental, charge or sum is payable in respect of the installation referred to in the account, and that the amount thereof is as stated in the account; and the production of a Post Office telex exchange ticket recording a call made or a service afforded shall unless the contrary is proved be sufficient evidence of the facts recorded thereon.

(2) A certified statement (whether or not included in a certified account):

(a) of the cost incurred by the Postmaster General in relation to any matter whereof the certified cost is referred to in these regulations or in an agreement,

(b) of the date on which an installation or any part of an installation is connected for use,

(c) of any distance for the purpose of regulation 2, or

(d) that a ticket produced is a Post Office telex exchange ticket, shall for all purposes (including the purposes of any proceedings by or against the Crown) be sufficient evidence, unless the contrary is proved, of the facts therein stated.

(3) A copy of the London, Edinburgh or Belfast Gazette containing any notice published therein by the Postmaster General in accordance with regulation 10 shall be conclusive evidence of the facts stated in the notice.

Remission of charges

23. The Postmaster General may remit in whole or in part any charge or sum payable or paid by virtue of these regulations.

Service of notices, etc.

24. Any notice, account, statement, direction or other document which may be given, rendered or made by the Postmaster General under or for any purpose of these regulations or an agreement shall be deemed to have been duly given, rendered or made and served if left at or sent by registered post or by the recorded delivery service to the address at or in connection with which the relevant telex service is required or provided, or to the address stated in the relative agreement as the subscriber's address, or an address notified to the Postmaster General by the subscriber as an address to which accounts may be sent, or to the subscriber's usual or last known place of abode or business in the British Islands.

Misuse of the telex system

25.—(1) A person shall not use any installation or call office:—

(a) for sending any message or communication which is offensive or abusive or of an indecent, obscene or menacing character to an officer of the Post Office or any other person, or

(b) for the persistent making of calls without reasonable cause or for the making of calls for the purpose of causing annoyance, inconvenience, or needless anxiety to an officer of the Post Office or any other person, or

(c) for the making of any call otherwise than by the method appropriate to the installation or call office from which the call is made, according to the Postmaster General's published instructions to subscribers and to users of call offices.

(2) The Postmaster General may interrupt and terminate any call of, and may refuse to give telex service to, any person who contravenes this regulation, and shall not in any such case be bound to return any sums paid in respect of the call and may suspend without notice, the telex service of any subscriber whose installation is used as aforesaid, either at the time the installation is so used or at any time thereafter, and may continue such suspension unless and until such assurance is received as the Postmaster General may deem sufficient that there will be no further contravention of the provisions of paragraph (1):

Provided that no action taken under this regulation shall prejudice any other right or remedy of the Postmaster General.

Non-liability of Post Office

26.—(1) Neither the Crown nor the Postmaster General nor any other officer of the Post Office shall incur any liability for or on account of or in respect of any loss or damage sustained by reason of any interruption or failure of communication or suspension of service by means of any installation, or any failure or error in connection with the taking or giving of messages by officers of the Post Office, or any omission or insertion of or error in any entry in a telex directory published by or on behalf of the Postmaster General.

(2) A subscriber shall not be entitled to any abatement of rental in connection with any of the matters aforesaid.

Consent or approval of the Postmaster General

27. Any consent or approval of the Postmaster General referred to in these regulations shall be revocable and may be given subject to such terms and conditions as the Postmaster General may think fit.

Saving for agreements

28. Where any provision in these regulations is inconsistent with an agreement, the agreement shall prevail.

Revocation and transitional provisions

29.—(1) The regulations mentioned in Schedule 3 are hereby revoked.

(2) Any charges for calls or services which have been fixed by the Postmaster General under the regulations hereby revoked, and which are in force at the commencement of these regulations, shall continue in force without further publication until superseded by charges fixed by the Postmaster General under these regulations.

Citation and commencement

30. These regulations may be cited as "The Telex Regulations 1965", and shall come into operation on the 26th July 1965.

Dated 27th May 1965.

Anthony Wedgwood Benn,
Her Majesty's Postmaster General.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

(This Note is not part of the Regulations.)

These regulations consolidate with amendments the Telex Regulations 1954, the Telex Amendment (No. 1) Regulations 1958, and the Telex Amendment (No. 2) Regulations 1961.

The principal amendments are:—

(1) "Message" has been defined and "telex service" re-defined to include the transmission of information in data form.

(2) Special charges are authorised for calls made from public telex call offices.

(3) A special rate is fixed for the inclusion in a telex directory of the name of a person permitted by the subscriber with the consent of the Postmaster General to use the subscriber's installation.
