(a) 24 & 25 Geo. 5. c. 50.
(b) 4 & 5 Eliz. 2. c. 67.
(c) S.I. 1955/1955 (1955 I, p. 1205).
(d) 9 & 10 Geo. 5. c. 50.
(e) S.I. 1957/274 (p. 2088 above).
(f) 52 & 53 Vict. c. 63.

3. Two signs shown in diagram 1 in the First Schedule or in diagram 1 in the Second Schedule shall be erected one on each side of the road at or as near as practicable to every point where a motor vehicle may duly pass from a length of road on which a speed limit is not in force to a length of road on which a speed limit is in force, which is a Class I road and the carriageway of which excluding any part thereof consisting of a central reservation or street refuge is at least thirty feet in width at that point:

Provided that where the length of road on which the speed limit is in force is a dual carriageway road one sign shall be erected on the left or near side of the road and one sign shall be erected on the central reservation instead of on the right or off side of the road.

4. Subject to the provisions of the last preceding paragraph, two signs shown in diagram 1 or diagram 2 in the First Schedule or in diagram 1 in the Second Schedule shall be erected one on each side of the road at or as near as practicable to every point where a motor vehicle may duly pass from a length of road on which a speed limit is not in force to a length of road on which a speed limit is in force:

Provided that where the length of road on which the speed limit is in force is a dual carriageway road one sign shall be erected on the left or near side of the road and one sign shall be erected on the central reservation instead of on the right or off side of the road.

5. Signs shown in diagram 3 in the First Schedule shall be erected in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding paragraph along a length of road more than two hundred yards in length on which a speed limit is in force, not being a road on which a system of street lighting furnished by lamps placed two hundred yards or less apart is provided.

6. The signs mentioned in the last preceding paragraph shall be so erected along a length of road so mentioned that—

(a) they face towards and are clearly visible to drivers of approaching motor vehicles;

(b) they are situated on each side of the road;

(c) the distance between any one sign on one side of the road and any sign next following that sign on that side and facing in the same direction does not exceed three hundred yards;

(d) the distance between any one sign on one side of the road and any sign next following that sign on the other side of the road and facing in the same direction does not exceed two hundred yards; and

(e) one such sign is not more than one hundred and fifty yards from each end of the said length of road:

Provided that where the said length of road is a dual carriageway road the foregoing provisions of this paragraph shall apply in relation to each carriageway on that length as though references in sub-paragraphs (b), (c) and (d) to "road" were references to that carriageway.

7. Two signs shown in diagram 4 in the First Schedule or in diagram 2 in the Second Schedule shall be erected one on each side of the road at every point where a motor vehicle may duly pass from a length of road on which a speed limit is in force to a length of road on which a speed limit is not in force:

Provided that where the length of road on which the speed limit is not in force is a dual carriageway road one sign shall be erected on the left or near side of the road and one sign shall be erected on the central reservation instead of on the right or off side of the road.

8. Signs shown in diagram 5 in the First Schedule shall be erected in accordance with the provisions of the next succeeding paragraph along a length of road on which there are one or more street lamps and on which no speed limit is in force.

9. A sign mentioned in the last preceding paragraph shall be erected on each lamp-post along any length of road mentioned in that paragraph so as to be clearly visible to the drivers of motor vehicles using the road, but if any lamp is mounted otherwise than on a post or if any existing lamp-post is not available or cannot conveniently be used for the purpose of erecting the sign upon it such sign shall be erected on a post to be specially placed for the purpose by the side of the road as close to each lamp as is consistent with the visibility of the sign to the drivers of motor vehicles using the road:

Provided that where on such a length of road—

(a) there is a lamp which is placed more than two hundred yards from the nearest other lamp on that road; or

(b) on one side of the road there are more than three lamps without there being any lamp on the other side of the road between the first and last of those lamps; or two such signs facing in opposite directions shall be erected on each lamp-post on which is mounted each of such lamps or on a post close to each such lamps, as the case may require.

(c) there are not more than three lamps which are placed two hundred yards or less apart;

10. Where a sign shown in any of the diagrams in the First Schedule or the Second Schedule is mounted on or attached to a post specially provided for that purpose, such post shall be painted in alternate black and white bands, each band being not less than eleven inches nor more than thirteen inches in width.

11. Nothing in these Directions shall be taken to limit the power of the Secretary of State by any special Direction to dispense with, add to or modify any of the requirements of these Directions in their application to any particular case.

Dated this 22nd day of February, 1957.

John S. Maclay,
One of Her Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State.

St. Andrew's House,
