Under the Agriculture Act, 1937 and during the period limited thereby (extended to the 30th September, 1958, by the Agriculture (Miscellaneous War Provisions) (No. 2) Act, 1940 and the Animals Act, 1948) the Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries may, in accordance with a scheme made by him and approved by the Treasury, pay to the owner of any herd of cattle in Great Britain such sums as the Minister thinks fit to expend for the purpose of securing so far as practicable that the herd will be free from tuberculosis. This scheme, made under that Act, accordingly specifies the conditions on which such payments may be made and the method in which they will be calculated.
